TWO TRAINS MISSING IN HURRICANE

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 8 (AP)—The tropical storm that has isolated a wide stretch of the east coast of Florida and wrecked heavy damage turned inland over central Florida today.

It was reported heading across south Osceola County in the northern fringe of the Everglades.

The disturbance was said to be still of great intensity and there was no detailed news from the area immediately affected.

Before recurving the storm has lashed more than a hundred miles of the coast line From Delray Beach to Melbourne, leaving extensive

PADLOCK LAW INVOKED BY BUSHNELL IN DRIVE ON SOMERVILLE DIVES

The "Brickbottom" and "Cold Coast" sections of Somerville went under State police guard today in a move for liquor law enforcement unprecedented in the State.

Without warning, 20 state troopers on motorcycles swooped down upon the districts this morning, established a temporary barracks there and a 24-hour patrol about the zone, prepared to remain until every liquor law violator is arrested or driven from the sections.

As the state police established their guard, District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell, upon whose orders they acted, filed 19 bills of equity in Middlesex Superior Court, seeking the padlocking for one year of as many establishments in the "Brickbottom" section.

That "gold coast" district, including Medford, South, Ward, Hunting and Warren sts., and several streets in "Brickbottom," went under state police guard almost tantamount to martial law.

Cheerful John Moody Observe Barney Deboka A Shark and George Kojac Mr. Swope's Lightning

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

JOHN MOODY STUDIES and thinks and predicts five more years, at least, of rising values and prosperity. "The old breeders of financial panic that brought on the crises of 1893, 1903 and 1907 have disappeared."

We are living in a new kind of America, with a new kind of prosperity. "America's world of today is not the world of 20 years ago," says Mr. Moody.

If you were feeling gloomy, cheer up.

Many are prosperous, NOT all. Barney Deboke, having vainly hunted a job, stood at a restaurant window watching a woman turning butter cakes. He fell in a faint and doctors are treating him for starvation.

Great is the power of civilization, training a man so well that he stands watching food until he drops of hunger rather than steal. Man is a teachable animal.

George Kojac, of New York, established a new world's record for swimming 100-meters backstroke. One more American winner not a "Nordic."

Kojac's time was one minute 9 4-5 seconds.

A shark swims two miles in one minute. While he was learning to swim so fast man was learning to think. Men catch sharks often. Sharks rarely catch men.

With automobiles men easily outrun the fastest land animals. Flying machines go faster than any bird. But on water, ideal speed element, 100 per cent ball

Oporto, Portugal, Aug. 8—Our decision to start was made about noon Thursday, when we got favorable weather reports.

Three indicated that we would have a northwest wind as far as the Azores and from that time on a side wind.

In addition, over the whole course we planned to follow the crossing there was a high pressure area.

Our preparations went forward hastily.

In the evening of that day came further word from the meteorological bureau confirming the earlier reports on the weather. These at

CAFE THUGS SEIZED IN FIGHT ARE IDENTIFIED

A desperate battle between two Boston policemen and two alleged robbers early today at Harvard at and Commonwealth ave. Allston, ended in the capture of a pair accused of nightly raids on fraternity rooms, garages and filling stations, including five holdups during the three hours preceding their arrest.

One of the alleged holdup men, who fled under a hail of bullets only to be cornered in an apartment house hallway, where a terrific fight ensued, was so badly injured by a policeman's club that his chances of recovery are slim.

The other who also fought a grim but losing battle for freedom, gave his name as William True and his address as Commonwealth Ave.

DEMOCRAT PRAISES HEARST STRAW VOTE

Democratic endorsement was given today to the nation-wide straw vote on the presidential election being conducted by the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers.

United States Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York was outspoken in his endorsement of the

"I am glad that the poll has been resumed," he said. "It will be interesting to watch. Because of the national scope of the poll, I think the test being conducted by the Hearst newspapers will be much more reliable than the ordinary straw ballot. I am confident that it will show a country-wide majority of 2 to 1 in favor of Governor Smith."

This year's campaign is, in the opinion of all the political experts, sure to be the most stirring, as it is in many respects the most important presidential struggle since the Civil War.

The first tabulations are expected to appear August 12. Daily in the Boston Evening American thereafter the returns

FATHER BURNS CHILD'S FINGERS; GIVEN 3 MOS.

Declaring her father burned her fingertips with matches on one occasion, and at another time beat her black and blue, Alice Lambert, 11, of Bassett st., Newton, told a story in Newton Court today that resulted in a three months' sentence for the father.

Her mother testified in corroboration of her story, while the defendant, Arthur Lambert, who appealed the finding of guilty of assault and battery, explained that the whipping was administered because he thought it his duty.

The little girl told Judge Eacon that she was given the unusual punishment with the matches after her father accused her of taking money from the pockets of the lodgers.

Exhibiting bruises on her arms and legs, she said she was given this beating because she went to Boston with a woman and stayed out too late. The mother testified that the beating was with a strap and lasted 20 minutes, her own pleas failing to halt it.

After this affair, testimony brought out, the mother took the girl to the police and swore out a complaint against the father,

GEO. BRENNAN, ILLINOIS DEMOCRATIC HEAD, DIES

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—George E. Brennan, Democratic national committee and the leader of Illinois democracy since the passing of Roger Sullivan, died today.

HEIRESS WONT SAY SHE WILL MARRY TUNNEY

"Polly" Lauder refused over the telephone today to confirm or deny reports that soon she will become the bride of Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world.

The "$5,000,000 heiress" is of the Lauder summer home at South Bristol, Me., and she is understood to be entertaining Tunney on the island.

"Nothing to say—neither yes nor no," satellites of the girl said while stating that "Polly," whose conventional first name is Josephine, would not answer calls in person.

GENE MEETS THE GIRL OF HIS DREAMS
he romance of Gene Tunney and Miss Josephine Lauder of Greenwich, Ct., budded om the moment of their first meeting while the daughter of a former partner of An-rew Carnegie was attending the exclusive Finch school. Gene followed up with fre-uent telephone conversations. (See Story on Page 9.)

ON MAINE SANDS HE WOES HER WITH BOOKS
With studies over, Miss Lauder spends much time at her family's beautiful summer home at South Bristol, Me., and, it is said, the heiress was the magnet that has drawn Tunney to the Pine Tree State on so many occasions. There he made a hit with his literary mind.

WELCOME GUEST
Persistency is Gene's keynote, especially in his courting, and he has often called on the heiress ire replied to by Floyd E. Barbour, secretary to Miss Lauder.

I am not going to say that Miss Lauder will not be married this year," the secretary said in answer to one call. "When she does decide to marry it will be announced in the proper manner. Yes—the reports have been discussed in the household."

Miss Lauder and members of her family, including her mother, stopped at South Bristol while on a tour of Canada and the United States. The island stay is indefinite.

Tunney arrived at the Maine id and yesterday without even a single hook. Then the marriage rumors began to fly.

Previously there had been lighter rumors because of the fact that the engagement had been seen frequently in company with Miss Lauder, whose grandfather was a brother-in-law and business associate of Andrew Carnegie.

PREPARING TROUSSEAU.

Close friends of Miss Lauder in Greenwich, Ct., reiterated today that she is preparing her trousseau for her marriage in the Lauder ancestral home at Lauderdale, Scotland.

But the friends would not commit themselves definitely as to the supposed husband-to-be.

However Tunney's plans to sail for Europe soon were announced before the Heeney fight, and now it turns out that Miss Lauder will sail for Europe on August 25.

Tunney has announced his intention of hiking through Germany and other countries with Thornton Wilder, noted writer and author of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," referred to by many of the fight boys as "The Bridge of St. Louis Ray."

But there may be a third party on the hike, according to the reports today.

MET HER IN 1926.

Tunney met Miss Lauder in 1926 before he acquired the championship from Jack Dempsey in the downpour at the Philadelphia sesquicentennial.

Sam Pryor, a boyhood friend of Tunney and a resident of Greenwich, Ct., introduced the couple.

Since then the neighbors at Greenwich have been noticing the tall, broad-shouldered man with the swell automobile, as he wheeled his pretty charge to the Lauder estate.

The car usually came back down the drive to the highway with tall, athletic and beautiful "Polly" seated beside the world champion.

On many occasions the driver of the sport car containing the couple wore goggles, but they did not prevent him being recognized by the neighbors as the heavyweight title-holder.

WHERE "POLLY" GREW UP

Josephine is "Polly" to all her friends and neighbors, who watched her grow up on the family estate, "Tighnabruaich," in Rock Ridge, Greenwich.

The family came to Greenwich 22 years ago from Pittsburgh, and one year later Josephine was born. Her home is on an estate of more than 90 acres, and is one of the show places in Greenwich.

She attended Rectory school in Greenwich, and then went to New York to enter the fashionable Low preparatory school, later transferring to the Finch school, an exclusive seat of training. She did not graduate from this school, as much of her time was spent in traveling.

Last fall she entered the Versailles (France) branch of the Finch school, and traveled through Europe.

GIRL WITH CLEVER MIND

Josephine is described by her schoolmates as "a girl with a clever and interesting mind and possessing poise of a lady a lot older than her 21 years."

A reporter paying a visit to Greenwich, noticed that the Lauder home is being prepared for the winter. A certain section of the back porch already contains athletic equipment and one very fine punching bag which may be for the use of Josephine's brother, George, 3rd, who is 18 and will be off to college in the winter. Then again the equipment may be there for the use of the former champion.

Miss Lauder is tall, athletic and very impartial. She is fond of all sports. Her father, George Lauder, Jr., who died 17 years ago, was a prominent yachtsman.

RACED FOR KAISER'S CUP

A member of the crew while at Yale, he went in for yacht racing after graduation and with his yacht, Endymion, finished fourth in the transatlantic race in 1905 for the Kaiser's cup. He was also one of the backers of the yacht Defiance, which was a candidate to defend the international cup.

In 1924 the Lauder family donated $400,000 to the Yale Medical School to be called the "Anna M. R. Lauder fund" in memory of George, Jr.'s, mother.

Miss Lauder's grandfather, George Lauder, Sr., who died in 1924, was the founder of the Lauder fortune and was a "pal" to Andrew Carnegie, being associated with the great ironmaster from the beginning of his career.

CLIMB UP LADDER AND COME RIGHT DOWN AGAIN

Thomas Fisher, 24, of St. Francis de Sales st., Roxbury, and Melvin Robbins, 27, of Beckwith circle, Somerville, today tugged a bundle of shingles up a ladder in Sydney ave., Lynn, only to have the ladder break when they were at the top. Both men escaped injury other than a shaking up. They were engaged in a roofing job at the home of Henry Donlan.

CHAMBERLAIN TO TAKE COMPLETE REST

London, Aug. 8—Sir J. Austen Chamberlain, British secretary for foreign affairs, has been ordered to take a complete rest in order that he may recover completely from the attack of bronchial pneumonia of which he has been suffering.

This became known when an official communique was issued designating Lord Cushendun as acting foreign secretary. Lord Cushendun will represent Great Britain at the September meeting of the council and of the assembly of the League of Nations.

stricken at 6 p. m., and was dead at 1 a. m. today.

Physicians again today sounded warnings for quick action when symptoms of the dread disease are discovered. They emphasized particularly that the avenue of entrance for the germs is through the nose and mouth and lodgement usually is first in the throat.

Children, they declared, should be kept cool and should be afforded ample rest. A child's afternoon nap should not be omitted by parents.

BLOOD OFFERED

Fourteen persons have volunteered their blood thus far for manufacture of anti-paralytic serum. All were once afflicted with the disease.

Five ounces of blood will be taken from each volunteer and this will be used to aid the 17 patients now suffering from the disease in that city. The transfusions will be made in the Waltham hospital tomorrow.

The names of five of the volunteers were made public by Dr. C. B. Fuller, director of the department of public welfare. They are Wilson Keith, 16, of 43 Wellington st.; Harold Hughes, Warren ave.; Mrs. Douglass Roberts, 184 Charles st., and Miss Elizabeth Higgins, 5 Mt. Pleasant st., all of Waltham, and F. J. Slater, 103 Madison ave., Newtonville.

Brewers Union Out for 'Al' Smith

Salem, Aug. 8—The brewer workers of America today went on record as favoring election of "Al" Smith as president.

Support of the New York governor was secured by Albert Kauger, representing the International Brewers' Union, at the annual convention of the Massachusetts branch.

The union is as strong as ever, he told the delegates, and, since 1919, has stood for modification of the Volstead Act. He said a concentrated drive is under way by the union leaders to make legal the production of "wholesome beer."

G. E. BRENNAN PASSES AWAY

Franklin D. Roosevelt, always opposed to Tammany Hall, he selected to nominate Smith at the national convention. Brennan, too, was given credit for the first realization of the value of night sessions at Houston, creating the possibilities of radio broadcasting.

Long a bulwark of Illinois democracy and for eight years its guiding hand, his passing on the eve of another presidential campaign was regarded as a big loss by his party associates.

For several years Mr. Brennan had been suffering from diabetes, and when the poison from the infected teeth began to spread through his system and a lung became affected, his strength quickly ebbed. He was 63 years old in May.

2 CAFE BANDITS IDENTIFIED BY MANY VICTIMS

Brighton. Troy's head was swathed in bandages when he later appeared in a lineup for identification by hold-up victims.

In moments of consciousness he refused to give his name, but fingerprints taken at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where he is under guard, proved to Inspector James Claffin, fingerprint expert, that he is Philip Cronin, with a police record dating back to 1911. Roscoe Hill, state expert, verified Claffin's report.

Within two hours after the capture six managers of all-night lunchrooms and a garage had identified Troy, according to the police, and by description identified the other prisoner. Two of these lunchroom managers were held up last Monday morning, one early Friday morning and the rest around midnight Friday.

The pair were captured by Patrolman Peter DiSessa and Albert Drown who saw them drive up to the Georgian cafeteria on Commonwealth ave. in a gray coupe and knew they were wanted by the car numbers which had been caught and given to the police by one of the victims.

SMASHED DOOR

The men broke and ran as the officers approached. Drown gave chase to one who headed off down Commonwealth ave. and, drawing his service revolver, fired four shots.

The chase led through Royce rd. to Brainerd rd. and back to Royce rd. where the fugitive entered the rear door of an apartment block and bolted the door behind him.

Without cutting his speed, Drown crashed against the door, smashing a panel with his shoulder, and reaching in to slide back the bolt. As he entered he drew his club and in the tussle that followed struck a blow that rendered his captive unconscious for hours.

Meanwhile Di Sessa, who was on his first night's tour of duty after months of special service with Capt. Livingston's flying squadron, overlook the other suspect, and the pair, locked together, rolled in the street, the policeman fighting to get in a blow that would knock out his prisoner.

STICKS TO STORY.

Just as the alleged thug was wearying Sergt. Thomas Harvel arrived in the course of his rounds and joined Di Sessa, who quickly slipped on the handirons.

Frank Latourette of Fayette st., South End, night manager of a Dorchester ave. restaurant which was looted Friday, faced a line of plainclothes policemen with Troy in their midst and is said to have promptly pointed out Troy.

Charges of armed robbery were placed against Troy and the other man by the Boston police and similar charges are expected from the authorities of Somerville and Cambridge.

In rapid succession, the Walton luncheroom on Dartmouth st., south End; a gasoline filling station at the Northern artery and Broadway, Somerville; the Mt. Auburn garage on Mt. Auburn st., Cambridge; the De Luxe luncheroom on Cambridge st., Allston, and the S. and P. Diner in Union sq., Brighton, were robbed around midnight, the robbers getting a total of $210.

Between the Walton robbery and the next on the list, the thugs abandoned a brougham in which they were traveling, leaving it on Park st., Charlestown, with a Walton check and punch as telltale evidence, and took a stylish gray coupe from Edinboro st., South End.

Miss Wallis asks $25,000 damages from the former Watch and Ward sleuth.

MOTHER DIES AS DAUGHTER IS MARRIED

By the margin of a few minutes Cupid won a race with Death to the bedside of a Taunton woman, whose dying wish to witness the marriage of her son to a Chelsea girl, was gratified.

The girl, Miss Sophie Luster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Luster, became the bride of Robert Swartz at the deathbed of Mrs. Bessie Swartz in her home, 18 New st., Taunton. The mother died a few minutes after Rabbi Israel Faber performed the ceremony.

The nuptials originally were planned for September. When Mrs. Swartz became seriously ill four days ago and was told that she would live but a short time, she summoned her son and his fiancee before her.

She was an old woman, she told them, and she was going to die. She would like, before life fled, to see them married.

The pair sped to the city clerk's office for their license. Judge William S. Woods of Bristol Juvenile court immediately issued the necessary five-day waiver. Rabbi Faber was added to the party and both they raced to the bedside of the dying woman.

Conscious to the end, Mrs. Swartz smiled upon the ceremony. And when she had kissed them both, she died.

Mrs. Swartz lived in Taunton for 23 years. In addition to three sons, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ida Swartz and a sister, Miss Eva Pandler, both of Boston.

HUNT ESCAPED CONVICT IN 3 STATES

Search for William F. App, escaped State Prison convict, extended over three states today, but unearthed no clew to the felon who eluded a guard, stole civilian clothing and vanished unmolested to his freedom.

Contrary to published reports, no member of his family is under guard by police, who denied they anticipated any act of violence by the fugitive.

App's aged mother at her home in North Woburn, where most of his relatives reside, said her son was on good terms with all members of the family and that all had visited him in prison where he was serving a 10 to 12 year sentence for attacking a child.

App has relatives in Maine and police believe he may have headed for that state or be bidding in New Hampshire waiting an opportunity to cross the border.

MIX GIVES $820,000 TO DEPARTING WIFE

QUARRELS DUE TO FRIENDS, HE SAYS

Los Angeles, Aug. 8 (AP)—Although Tom Mix, cowboy film star, declares he has given his wife, Mrs. Victoria Forde Mix, approximately $820,000 in a property settlement with which she may establish a home in Europe if she desires, he is confident she will not divorce him.

Discord in the Mix household preceding Mrs. Mix's departure for Europe a month ago, the millionaire actor ascribes to the "meddlesome and inane" of Hollywood.

Some of his wife's friends, he said, caused quarrels and unhappiness. Mix today said he knew, however, that their mutual love for their small daughter, Thomasina, would bring them together again.

HER FRIENDS NOT HIS

"Mrs. Mix's friends were not my friends," said the actor. "I know they hated me and I didn't like them. I tried to be a good fellow and play host, but I got nothing but nervous indigestion for my efforts. So when they came to my house I would be absent.

"I have entertained but few of my own friends in my own home.

"I could have stood it all and flattered the beautiful women and kissed their hands as other men do, but it was not in my makeup. I can't be a hypocrite. Naturally our difference brought quarrels and we had long discussions about the subject, so Mrs. Mix decided on a trip abroad.

GIVES HER WEALTH

The property settlement made about a year ago gives Mrs. Mix $300,000 in cash, clothing and jewelry valued at $370,000, and an additional sum of $50,000 was set aside to buy a home for Mrs. Mix abroad, the actor said.

"I think the change will make Mrs. Mix see that I am right," the Western star said, "and that happiness can be ours if we want it.

"When she told me she wanted to go abroad, I told her she could have anything that would make her happy—even a divorce. But I am sure she doesn't want a divorce and that she will come back to the home that is always open to her. She didn't say she wanted freedom when she left and not a word was said about a divorce when I kissed her good-bye at the train."

What Next? City 'Dudes' Beat 'Hicks' as Farmers

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP) — The story of the country boy who goes to the big city and becomes a bank president or something equally substantial is an old one. Now comes the story of the big city boy who goes to the country to dig fame and fortune from the soil.

The Chicago police department's bureau for unemployed boys today made public a letter in which A. E. Willoughby, manager of a 2000-acre farm at Plymouth, O., requested 15 more boys of the caliber he has just given a six months' trial.

"Give me the city boys for intelligent farm work, for they sure make good," Willoughby wrote. "I feared at first they would just be attracted by the novelty of outdoor life. Instead, their interest in the farm seems to be increasing and they are not only hard workers, but also show great adaptation to agriculture."

The boys were promised $30 a month, room and board, clothing and shoes, for raising onions and potatoes. Some have advanced their wages to $55 a month.

WHEN CROWLEY RAIDS 'EM THEY STAY RAIDED

Roxbury "speakeasy" owners, who attended a session of Roxbury court today to see what their future business prospects were, suffered a rude shock, when severe fines and sentences were imposed on three men arrested after a personal liquor raid by Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley.

To their consternation they learned that Crowley raids have a much sadder aftermath than the usual liquor arrests. Several places owned by the "super" since his first raid last Friday are doubtless closed for good, police say, as a result of this warning.

The raid in question called Thomas Mulvey, Joseph O'Connell and Thomas Morgan before Judge Briggs today, charged with keeping and exposing liquor for sale on a Washington st. place.

Found guilty, they were given three months in the House of Correction and fined $200 each. They appealed. A packed courtroom watched proceedings.

"That's fine co-operation," said Superintendent Crowley when he learned of Judge Briggs' action. He did not go to court, although he notified the judge he was ready to appear if needed. Special Officers Walter Higgins and Paul Crowley, who were with him on the raid, testified.

TURTLE AWARD GIVEN MOTHER OF FOUR

"Sleepyhead Oaky," sojourning temporarily in Medford, crawled out of his shell today and responded by proxy that Mrs. Florence McLaughlin of 1 Cottage st., Charlestown, collects the $10 for the best letter on how he got into the live oak log.

The announcement was made direct by the Judges, Admiral Philip Andrews, superintendent of the First Naval District; Park Commissioner William D. Long and Lieut. John A. Logan, U. S. Marine of reconstruction the U. S. Frigate Constitution.

Sifting through hundreds of letters sent in "Sleepyhead Oaky" at the Boston Evening American office, the judges finally narrowed them down to eight, and then picked out Mrs. McLaughlin's as the best.

OVERJOYED

The young wife and mother was overjoyed when she heard the news tonight with true motherly instinct declared she would spend the money on shoes for her four children, Kenneth and Violet, twins; and Virginia and Frederick.

"I was just hoping I would get the $10," said Mrs. McLaughlin, whose husband's work has not been regular. "You know how children go through shoes. This is a real godsend and I am glad the turtle got into that log."

Here is Mrs. McLaughlin's letter:

"I should imagine the turtle discovered a hole in the tree and made his home there. Owing to the tree being submerged, the wood gradually swelled, thereby imprisoning 'Sleepyhead.'

IN QUEER PLACES

"The water kept the log soft and the tree grew around him, the sap section preserving his life.

"As turtles have been known to live long in queer places, this isn't unlikely.

"Now 'Oaky,' which was found at the navy yard in a log that had been submerged in a Florida lake for 73 years, can sit back and enjoy his vacation in Medford until the fiftieth Constitution is completely rebuilt and he takes up his post, as mascot.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF EX-WORCESTER MAN

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—G. Davies Tainter, well-to-do horse exhibitor, committed suicide yesterday by shooting, Acting Medical Examiner Huntington announced today, but his family declines to accept the verdict, believing that death was accidental. His body was found in the saddle room of his stables at Sammis Farms with a charge of shot in the head and a shotgun nearby.

Members of his family said he had no financial worries, his health was good and they could assign no motive for taking his life. Tainter was 53 years old and was born in Worcester, Mass.

GAY NATATORS CLEAVE BRIGHT WATERS OF SUN-KISSED DUBLIN LAKE, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Swimming and Tennis Popular at New Hampshire Society Resort This Summer

LIFE UP AT DUBLIN, SECLUDED AND EXCLUSIVE in its verdant New Hampshire hills, is, so to speak, just one splash after another. As mermaids and mermen cleave Dublin Lake's pellucid depths in the swan dive's graceful perfection and the latest in bathing regalia. All very well is the sail, salt sea, say the Dublinites, for those who prefer old ocean. But for them their matchless sheet of shining lake. Lying before their very doorsteps. Murmuring pines enfold it. Heaven's own blue colors it. Fair femininity adorns it, bright as the sun itself at the fashionable swimming hour.

MISS PAULINE CABOT'S SHORN GOLDEN locks lie sleek and close as she, in a slender sheathe of scarlet, does a high dive from the topmost stand of the float. Closely identified with Dublin's smart exclusiveness is Miss Cabot, daughter of the T. Handasyd Cabots. The Cabot summer home, Italian simplicity in stucco, has housed many brilliant companies. The Cabots, pere et mere, are true cosmopolites. And the Cabot daughter, Miss "Polly," epitomes Dublin Younger Set perfectly.

GOLDEN HAIRED MRS. JOHN MITCHELL'S swimming suit is the last word as Paris speaks it. A bright sheathe gay as Joseph's coat done modernistically is Mrs. Mitchell's water wear, infinitely becoming to the blue-eyed, curly locked beauty now Mrs. Mitchell, but always and forever "Sister Caswell" to her Boston girlhood intimates. Mrs. Mitchell adorns any social scene whatsoever, even exalted ones, royally flavored when heirs apparent are being entertained. An honor guest of the Joseph Lindon Smiths at "Loon Point" she moves with Dublin's most consequential ones.

"LOON POINT" IS A CHARMING PLACE, AS delightful optically as one would expect of a Joseph Lindon Smith establishment. Hoary clapboards and artistic irregularities keep perfectly the New England countryside atmosphere Mr. Smith desires for his studio exterior. It might be an age old barn without. Within, Smith treasures hang from every staunch beam. The Smiths are world travelers. They know certain hinterlands intimately, having journeyed to them laden with painters' kits. For the express purpose of putting hidden wonders into oil and water color permanency.

DULL SKIES AND SMART SHOWERS FIND NO reflection in the faces of Marblehead's small amateur sailors. To be sure Race Week is somewhat in the doldrums, since "wind and weather" are not permitting all the races to be run. The Corinthian float and the Eastern float are busy spots, however. And the small fry puts to an idle moment, between races, in sending a smile the camera man's way. The younger generation tars look their parts, and dress them perfectly.

of Washington, delights in tennis at Dublin, having been a champion as Mlle. Miguette de Bac.

THE SMARTEST BREEZE O' WIND CANNOT PENETRATE THE sea going silkskins little Miss Marion Leeson puts on when she sets sail in the "Black Cat." A true daughter of an enthusiastic sailorman father is little Miss Leeson. Robert Leeson is one of the Eastern Yacht Club's potentates, and the Leeson summer place in leafy and secluded Pench's Point is merely a stone's throw from deep water anchorage for the Leeson fleet of yachts and motor cruisers. Miss Abigail Aldrich handles the "Lioness" like a seasonal sailor. She can be captain or crew with equal facility.

Vaughan Jealous, is an accomplished sailor lass. Her heavy white sweater defies the sharpest spray, and a gaudy bandana worn pirate fashion holds fast her flying locks. But one and all, they deplore the gray and leaden skies, these ardent sailors, and scan the horizon for a sign of clearing, so that Race Week may progress.

DRIVEN TO SIGN DENIAL SHE IS KAISER'S KIN

Quebec, Aug. 8 (AP)—To silence a "whispering campaign," two American tourists have signed affidavits before the chief justice of the sessions court denying that they are the Princess Victoria Schaumburg-Lippe, sister of the former kaiser, and her youthful Russian husband.

They are just plain Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wilkes of Forest Hills, N. Y., they told Judge Arthur Lachance.

The two arrived from Europe four days ago on a steamer and took quarters in a modest hotel. Then the "whispering campaign" started.

One newspaper announced that the two visitors were the princess and her husband, Alexander Subkoff, who figured prominently in European news in the last few months.

Columns were devoted to the striking resemblance of the "princess" to the ex-kaiser. Interviews were sought and denied.

In desperation the couple finally went to court and signed the affidavits.

WOMAN SLAIN BY ATTACKER

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—The body of Miss Jennie Constance, 42, head of the English department of Bradley Polytechnical Institute at Peoria, Ill., was found on the front lawn of an Evanston residence this morning. She had been attacked and slugged to death.

A blood-stained piece of iron pipe was found near the body behind a hedge in front of the home in which she had been rooming for the summer. Stains along the sidewalk indicated she had been struck as she walked in front of the house. Her clothes were nearly torn from her body.

PRINCE, 11,000 BRITISH VETS AT YPRES

Ypres, Belgium, Aug. 8 (AP)—Eleven thousand British veterans of the World War, including 200 women who served in various capacities gathered about Menin gate today for a solemn ceremony in commemoration of their comrades who fell in the desperately-held Ypres salient.

Among them stood the Prince of Wales, Lady Haig, the widow of Britain's victorious commander, and Admiral Lord Jellicoe, president of the British Legion.

The archbishop of York delivered the chief address of the service, but before he began a two-minute silence was kept. The spectators sang many familiar hymns and the Legion's wreath was placed upon the memorial gate.

To the pealing of the bell of Ypres churches came a long march past the gate of the excavtic men and the ceremonies were closed.

The Prince of Wales, who had declined the hospitality of both the French and Belgian governments so that he might join the men in their billets before the ceremonial, was one of the central figures in the ceremonies. Accompanied by Gen. Weygand and others, he took the salute of the veterans in their final march. Many of those who passed before him limped on artificial limbs some even had crutches and there were numerous empty sleeves.

When the thousands had tramped by, the pilgrimage units returned to their various resting places preparatory to visiting the familiar scenes around the old battlefields where some 75,000 of their comrades, whose graves are unidentified, died.

MEDFORD'S TAX IS CUT $3

The Medford tax rate for 1928 is $29.40 per $1000, a reduction of $3 from last year, it was announced today.

In announcing the reduced rate, Mayor Edward H. Larkin also took occasion to declare himself a candidate for re-election. He is on the last half of a two-year term, but he has been a member of the city government for 18 years.

The tax rate reduction is the largest ever made in Medford in one year and is despite the city's record-breaking school and street construction program.

Medford's population was given out at the same time as 54,971, the city's valuation as $75,515,000, an increase of $3,855,550 over 1927, and the number of assessed automobiles as 7756 with a valuation of $2,551,000.

TO GET $30,000 FOR 19 YEARS IN PRISON

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—The London sketch said today Oscar Slater has accepted the government's offer of $30,000 as compensation for his wrongful conviction of murder 19 years ago.

Proposals that Slater should be compensated were made soon after a Scotch court had cleared his name on July 29 of the murder of Miss Mary Gilcarist, an aged woman. He had been released on parole last November after serving 18 years of a life sentence and immediately began a fight to establish his innocence.

Slater was arrested in New York in 1909 as he landed from the line Lusitania. During his battle to clear his name many prominent persons, including Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, came to his aid.

His case came into prominence last August during the world-wide interest in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. several British newspapers cited it as comparable to the Massachusetts case. He had been convicted in Edinburgh and when no appeal was provided for in Scotch law, and lagged through public demand aroused in his behalf Parliament passed a special act creating a court of criminal appeal for Scotland.

TWO HISTORIC CITIES IN TURKEY FIRE-SWEPT

Constantinople, Aug. 8 (AP)—Two historic Turkish cities, Brussa and Kutala, were visited by disastrous fires yesterday and it was said the insufficiency of water added greatly to the destruction.

Kutala, famed for its pottery and early Ottoman art treasures, was still burning today and hundreds of houses, shops and mosques were in ashes.

Sixty buildings were burned in Brussa, including the Hotel D'Anatolie, one of the most famous in the Near East.

ROME-TO-BRAZIL FLIER MAY LOSE BOTH LEGS

Rio Janeiro, Aug. 8 (AP)—Maj. Carlo P. Debrete, one of the Rome-to-Brazil fliers, may lose both legs as the result of a crash in which he and his transatlantic companion, Capt. Arturo Ferrarin, were injured yesterday. A medical bulletin today stated Debrete's left leg and right knee were fractured and an X-ray examination would determine if amputation is necessary. Capt. Ferrarin was badly bruised about the neck and head.

HOW M-G-M GOT RESCUE FILMS OF COURTNEY

Motion pictures taken in mid-Atlantic of the thrilling rescue of Capt. Courtney, the British aviator, and his three companions from their drifting, burning plane, are shown today in leading theaters by M-G-M news.

Aboard the S.S. Minnewaska, when she turned off her course to answer the fast-flying wireless call of Courtney's hapless airplane, White, drifting on the Atlantic, 500 miles west of the Azores, was a passenger with a sixteen-millimeter motion picture camera returning from a vacation in Europe. On this narrow strip was exclusively recorded one of the most heroic epics of the air.

The picture shows how the Minnewaska first sighted the Wasp riding helplessly upon a comparatively calm sea. Steaming up to within a quarter of a mile of the wrecked airplane, the Minnewaska stopped and lowered a boat manned by a voluntary crew of rescuers.

Abandoning the crippled plane, the crew of the lifeboat rowed the rescued back to the Minnewaska to the plaudits of the passengers who lined the deck.

Representatives of M-G-M met the Minnewaska at quarantine and the film was hurried by speedboat to the laboratories of M-G-M news where began a new and extremely delicate process of transferring the tiny images from the sixteen-millimeter negative to negatives of standard size to be used in theaters. The task was completed in approximately three hours, probably the fastest time ever made on such a difficult task. Prints were then rushed and dispatched to theaters throughout the country. Meantime, still photographs had been made from the film for the Hearst newspapers and sent by telephone, airplane, and fast mail.

Doctors Working On International Medical Code

S. S. Mauretania, via radio to the Associated Press, Aug. 8—Experiments seeking to evolve an international medical chest and a code directing medical treatment that will be understandable in any language, are being conducted on the Mauretania. The object is to assist shipmasters whose personnel does not include a physician or surgeon.

The experiments are being conducted by Dr. McIntyre of the Ministry of Health of the British Board of Trade, in co-operation with Dr. H. C. Case and Dr. Philip Morton. They have been communicating with smaller ships and for three days have been treating hypothetical cases of pneumonia, typhoid and appendicitis. Thus far the experiments have been a success.

POLICE SEIZE 3 AFTER AUTO IS STRIPPED

Three men, alleged to have been interrupted in the act of stripping a stolen touring car, were arrested in Dorchester early today after a chase, during which police fired one shot.

Two were captured in Standish st., where on the railroad right-of-way the stripping was in progress. The third was caught in New Calvary Cemetery, two miles from the scene, an hour later.

Frank O'Brien of Fairmount st., Dorchester, and Bromley Richardson, Willard st., Norwich, stopped running when Patrolman Reeves fired a shot over their heads. They were taken in custody by Reeves and Patrolmn Mahoney and Barrett.

The description of the man who escaped was immediately broadcast and an hour later, in New Calvary Cemetery, near the main entrances in Harvard st., Mattapan, Sergeant William Paleh and Patrolman Collins arrested Francis Collins of Cambridge st., Allston.

The three were charged with larceny of the automobile, which was the property of Thomas Sarsman, 2 Kingsdale st., Dorchester.

'RELIGIOUS ISSUE' BOBS UP IN BRITISH RACE

London, Aug. 8 (AP)—Reports were current today that the religious issue might be injected into the British general election. Sir William Jowson-Hicks, Home Secretary, who championed the cause of the Evangelicals when the Lynchpin case was defended in Commons, is standing for re-election in Tuckerton. It was reported an Anglo-Catholic independent conservative would oppose him. Observers predicted if this were done the Evangelicals would retaliate by making nominations of their own in other constituencies, introducing the church issue in the campaign.

WHILE waiting in the lobby of the Commodore Hotel, New York, reading a copy of the Washington, D. C., Times-Herald, I was approached by a big Washington piano man who happened to know me in a business way. He said to me: "Collins, how will Smith go in New England?" (You can't get Big Business Men to talk anything but Smith.) Before I could answer him he answered himself, saying that Smith would carry New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Without starting an argument (you can't argue with an enthusiast, you know) I said: "This Smith must be some boy." That's as far as I got. "Collins," he said. "Mark well what I tell you. Al Smith will be the next President of these good old United States—the people want him—they believe in him—they know his record. He is a real champion of the people. He is of the people and for the people, and they know it." He was going great when I tore myself away to catch my train to good old Boston where I will personally conduct my mospheric conditions were better than any since we had began waiting for a proper time to start, or at least for the past two months.

POLISH FLIER'S OWN STORY OF ILL-FATED TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT

Incidentally, the forecast on which we based our decision to start was fulfilled as far as we went. They were so excellent that at the time we were forced to alight we still had enough fuel for 32 hours more of flying.

BUILDER HELPS

That afternoon and night we worked over our machine. Every strut, every connection, everything which would have to bear strain was tested and found in perfect order.

We put aboard 6200 liters of benzine (about 1700 gallons) and 220 liters of oil.

There was in our minds never a thought that our plane could fail. We had flown it 150 hours and we had made one endurance test of 82 hours. Not a defect in construction or operation did we discover in this time. At that field helping us to prepare was M. Amlot, who built the plane, and his staff. For their glory and our safety they soared no effort in making it airworthy.

For safety in case of mishap we had valves for dumping the fuel in a few seconds and a rubber boat on which we could leave the plane if it failed to float. The tanks emptied of benzine were relied upon to give the machine considerable buoyancy.

Other of our equipment included a Morell magnetic compass, a Cail inclinator, an earth inductor General Electric compass and an improved sextant, made by Faye in Petote. By way of food we had ten liters of water, two chickens, some biscuits and some coffee.

A GOOD TAKE-OFF

At 11 o'clock that night our preparations were complete. We went to bed and were awakened at 3 next morning.

When we went to the field to start we found a crowd, including many of our friends, gathered under an overcast sky. We could not use the wind to advantage on the take-off. For this reason our run on the ground was rather long—700 meters.

Our plane rose rapidly, considering its heavy load, and we cleared the hills beyond Paris with ease as we moved eastward. The rise and start was so easy in fact that we regretted the 500 liters of benzine we had thought to take and finally decided not to because of their weight.

The air was calm, with a slight tail wind. The sky remained overcast, as long as we were above France. A plane escorted us to the coast, which we reached at L'Orient at 7:28 o'clock. Fishermen were steering out in their boats at that time in the morning and they waved to us and we put out to sea above them. We observed the waves and could readily deduce that we still had a wind behind us.

THROUGH DENSE FOG

Air conditions were so favorable that we were able to reduce the revolutions of our motor and save fuel without much lessening the speed of the plane.

This was as we left the coast. It soon changed. Half an hour from L'Orient we ran into a mountain of fog.

This fog was so thick we could see nothing ahead, above or below us. Going down slowly, we found that it ended about 70 meters above the sea and left a clear path. But we were too heavily loaded to risk flying that low. A sudden air current might have thrown us to the water to crack up and sink immediately.

We chose to climb and travel what path there was between the fog and the clouds. This was about 300 meters. Our plane handled well and rode smoothly, but because of the clouds and fog we could take no observations whatever.

At about 9 o'clock that morning I reduced the revolutions of motor another hundred per minute. We were making a fine saving of fuel.

Two hours of this and the weather broke. The clouds thinned and the fog lifted. The sun came out and the wind freshened. We immediately made observations and learned that we were fifty kilometers off our course, taken there by the brisk north wind.

The waves began breaking, indicating that the wind was increasing. The air became so clear that we could easily see for a distance of fifty kilometers.

Going lower, we found that flying at fifty meters above the water was not tiresome, and there we stayed. At this low altitude the air was smooth as a highway and of an even temperature, whether we were in the sun or an occasional slight mist, because it was so close to the water.

CHANGE OUR COURSE

We continued on the course we had taken until 5:30 o'clock that evening and then Kubala indicated a new course due west.

This was to be kept along the 41st degree until we crossed the steamship lanes. Following it would put 150 kilometers from our projected flight over the Azores.

By 1:30 we were in line with the Azores. We had been flying fifteen hours and everything appeared to be working for us better than we had dared to hope.

Half an hour later at 8 o'clock, the fog and clouds returned. The wind was high at the upper altitudes and we flew through the fog near the water in order to avoid it.

It was at 1:20 that Kubala went to the bottom of the ship to make an observation of our drift from the true course because of the wind. There, on the floor, he found oil, a quantity of it.

OIL PRESSURE DROPS

In great alarm he shouted to me of his discovery. It was not more than a few minutes after this that my instruments told me of a loosening oil pressure. I turned to my companion and said:

"What shall we do now? Where shall we fly, onward or back?"

We did not want to turn back, but both of us knew we would have to do so. Thought had to control us, rather than ambition, hard as that was. In the decision we reached there were also considerations by Kubala of wind velocity and direction and the possibility of reaching help.

The Western Hemisphere was too far away—1700 kilometers. The wind was southwest, therefore on our quarter and slightly retarding us and there was fog ahead, in all probability. In addition there were no ship lanes ahead. The Azores were the nearest land, but the stars were obscured and we could not take observations to make sure of reaching the islands.

(Major Idzikowksi will continue his story of his remarkable flight tomorrow.)

TESTIFYING IN OBREGON MURDER CASE

Maria Concepcion Acevedo de la Lata is alleged to have confessed that she suggested the killing of President-elect Obregon to Jose de Leon Toral, who is charged with the crime. She is shown here giving her version to the judge and public prosecutor.

PROBE OUSTING OF TEACHER

An auditor will be appointed in a few days to hear the facts and report as to whether, in his opinion, the Dedham school board acted in good or bad faith in removing Thomas S. Foley, principal of the Avery and Quincy schools, East Dedham.

This was decided upon today by Supreme Court Justice Crosby, following the auditor's report. Foley will get a hearing on his writ of mandamus for reinstatement unless prior to that time it is decided to have the case go to the full bench on questions of law.

Foley claims the support of 1000 parents as a "defense committee" in his court action.

ARREST 37 IN OBREGON PLOT

Mexico City, Aug. 3 (AP)—Police headquarters announced today that 37 persons, including two Catholic priests, had been arrested and were being held for investigation in connection with the assassination of Gen. Alvaro Obregon.

It was also announced that the police had arrested Carlos Castro Balsa, generally called Carlos Castro. He is said by the authorities to have been associated with Manuel Trejo in the bombing of the Chamber of Deputies on May 1.

Police are still seeking Trejo in connection with the statement of Jose De Leon Toral, Obregon's assassin, that he bore wed the gun for the killing from Trejo.

TRAINS MISSING IN FLORIDA

property damage but so far as has been ascertained no loss of life.

At Fort Pierce residents were said to have barricaded themselves in their homes against the fury of the hurricane.

Strong gales were predicted for this west Florida coast from Tampa north to Appalachicola, although the Weather Bureau report did not predict just where the storm would emerge from the mainland into the Gulf of Mexico.

ALONG 1926 STORM PATH

In thus recurving to cross the peninsula, this storm, although less severe than the hurricane of September, 1926, was following virtually the same course across the state except that it ranged about 100 miles further to the north.

The 1926 hurricane wrecked Moorehaven on Lake Okeechobee, but from best advices the present storm will miss the great marsh lake.

Two vessels were stricken at sea and two trains, one the southbound palatial Havana Special from New York for Miami, on the Florida East Coast Railway, were lost in the isolated area today.

A freight train, southbound from Jacksonville to Miami, was isolated somewhere on the stricken east coast but little anxiety was felt for the crew, railway officials believing the train may have been marooned in a washout. It left Fort Pierce late last night.

The Mallory liner Algonquin, after losing her bearings last night in the terrific seas churned up by the hurricane, was reported today in Florida strait safely riding out the storm. There are 500 passengers aboard.

ONE SHIP UNREPORTED.

The United Fruit Company's motor ship Castilla, was proceeding to New York at full speed and was out of the path of the hurricane, according to radio advices today. She had been standing by the Honduran steamer Lempira, which had lost several lifeboats and was unable to make progress against the gale.

At the offices of the Atlantic Navigation Co., operators of the Lempira, no direct word from the ship had been received.

Anxiety was expressed over the whereabouts of the "Havana Special" of the Florida East Coast Railway, which was eleft hourt overdue at Miami from New York. It had last been heard from on Jaskiwi Fort Pierce last night. Its route from there to Miami lay through the early morning storm area. It was due in Miami at 2:10 this morning.

The storm entered the mainland through the famous Indian river citrus district and grave fears were felt for the heavily-laden trees in that area and throughout south central Florida.

The ridge section of south central Florida, dotted with orchards, appeared to be in the direct path of the gale.

Fort Pierce located between Melbourne and West Palm Beach, has been isolated since last night.

BARRICADED IN HOMES

The last word from there said that a 75-mile hurricane was raging and that residents were barricaded in their homes.

'GUSTIN GANGSTER' ARREST IN DETROIT COP MURDER

Sergt. William Harrow, with Special Officers Goldston and McDonald, arrested Dr. Donald W. Cassidy, a dentist, Joseph C. Barker and Cecil R. Debbin, all claiming Houlton, Me., as their home, for attempted larceny of an automobile in the theatrical district, and vagrancy. On their way to headquarters with the trio, the officers, members of the Flying Squadron, picked up Henry W. Coogan, alleged member of the "Gustin gang," and held him for Detroit officials in connection with the holdup of the Detroit News. He will be viewed today by several witnesses at the hearing on larceny charges against Frank Wallace, alias Gustin, also held in connection with the Detroit News holdup and the murder of a policeman, on June 6.

'PEEPER' CAUGHT 'LOOKING FOR BURGLAR' FINED

John Forti, proprietor of a small store off Shute st., Everett, in Malden court today was fined $25 for disturbing the peace, after Mrs. Perkins of Shute st. identified him as a "Peeping Tom." She and her daughter were alone in their bedroom early today when Mrs. Perkins discovered a man at a window. She warned her daughter to continue talking as though she were in another part of the room, and then ran and called the police, who captured Forti. He told the court his store had been robbed a few nights previously and he was looking for the burglars.

FUMES KILLED ITALIAN SUB CREW OF 27

Rome, August 8 (AP) — Poisoned by acid fumes or drowned in the first rush of water, the crew of the Italian submarine F-14, sunk in a collision early Monday morning in the upper Adriatic, died to a man at their posts.

The stricken submarine was raised to the surface after thirty-four hours of desperate labor by divers who worked hour after hour to attach an airpipe to the sunken vessel and to fasten steel cables that she might be lifted to the surface.

Twenty-seven men perished in the tragedy. First reports received by the naval authorities indicated that 31 men were aboard, but a check of the bodies today revealed that four of the crew had remained ashore for reasons which have not yet been ascertained.

Included among the victims were two officers, Capt. Weil and Commander Fasulo. Both officers were at their posts of command in the conning tower while the remaining members of the crew were all found dead at their respective stations.

There were no signs of panic aboard the boat and the crew evidently had kept till the last that they would be saved, only to succumb one by one to the fumes from their electric battery room.

Inspection of the hull showed that the submersible was not rammed by the destroyed Giuseppe Missori as first thought, but was struck in its propeller. This caused a great gaping gash near the stern through which water rushed into the hull.

Those in the immediate vicinity met instant death by drowning while the watertight compartments temporarily saved the lives of the remainder until they died of poisoning.

It was found that all of the watertight compartments held till the end despite the fear that their weight would yield under the terrific pressure to which the submarine was subjected to.

In view of the extraordinary speed with which the submersible was raised, it is felt some of the crew would certainly have been saved had it not been for the poisonous fumes from the battery room.

The F-14 was towed into Pola today and was met by crowds of spectators who showed deep sorrow at the tragedy.

As for the poisoning of the crew, it is considered probable that the submarine went to the bottom on an uneven keel which caused the sulphuric acid in the electric batteries to pour out.

Stole Load of Ladders, Must Serve 6 Months

For stealing a load of ladders, Henry C. Richard of the Liberty st., Lynn, was sentenced to six months in Salem jail after pleading guilty in Lynn District Court. Richard took the ladders from a storage yard and attempted to sell them to a contractor doing repair work at the Cobbet school on Franklin st., Lynn.

BOILER BLAST PERILS YANKEE SHIP AT SEA

Tokyo, Aug. 8 (AP)—A radio message picked up by the Japanese steamship Paris Maru states that the Doling Line freighter Stanley Dollar, bound to Shanghai from Seattle, was disabled by a boiler explosion off the Kurile yesterday.

The Japanese ship, which was off eastern Japan when it received the message offered to assist the disabled vessel. The American ship replied that the Stuart Dollar, bound from Victoria, B. C., to Darien, Manchuria, was expected to stand by shortly.

The Stanley Dollar also said her water supply was about exhausted but the American liner President Grant, which sailed from Yokohama for Seattle on Aug. 2 was expected to arrive and replenish it.

28 ARRESTED IN MILL STRIKE PICKET LINE

Disorder broke out in both Fall River and New Bedford today, when police, dispersing pickets, arrested 28 persons, charging them variously with loitering, parading without permits and disturbing the peace.

The first clash in Fall River occurred at 6:30 when police found a picket line of 25 to 30 persons on duty in front of the plant of the American Printing Co., where a strike was recently called. They arrested 19 pickets, the others fleeing.

An hour later when leaders of the textile mill's committee attempted to organize another picket line, six more persons were taken into custody. At the same time a number of employes returned to work in the plant when a foreman announced that positions were open to them.

Six arrests were made in New Bedford, the first in nearly a week, when police broke up a picket line at the Acushnet Mill. About 40 pickets were on duty when the order to disperse was given, the line breaking.

ing but being reformed by those later taken into custody. They included Casimira Limoires, who recently became a picket leader in the South End, and Mr. and Mrs. Jose C. Oliveira.

Public hearings in the investigation of the strike situation in New Bedford were to open in the Municipal Building before the State board of conciliation and arbitration.

Don't fool yourself:

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Marriage-and halitosis

If your husband, or your wife, has halitosis (unpleasant breath), it's your duty to call attention to it and suggest the effective remedy —Listerine.

Certainly this course is a better one than putting up with halitosis and saying nothing about it.

A great many people fool themselves in thinking they never have halitosis.

What a presumption! Because nobody knows when he or she is a victim. It doesn't announce itself to you. But it does to others. And that offends.

Listerine ends halitosis because it is a powerful deodorant. If you doubt this, rub a bit of onion on your hand. Then apply Listerine clear. Immediately the odor disappears.

Use Listerine morning and night, and between times, before meeting others. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

DRIVE TO CLOSE DIVES IN BRICKBOTTOM AND GOLD COAST

BUSHNELL STARTS WAR TO END NOTORIOUS RUM TRAFFIC

Troopers patrolled the streets, stopping all pedestrians and motor drivers, inquiring their business and immediately shooting up on the veracity of their replies.

The troopers had orders to search any vehicle suspected of transporting liquor and to seal all the occupants. Any cars seized would be claimed as forfeits of the state, Atty. Bushnell said.

The police are quartered in a house in "Brickbottom," recently prepared beforehand. They will live there, on a 24-hour a day guard, working in shifts, "until all the dives in Brickbottom are boarded up and all the violators arrested or driven out," in the words of Bushnell.

BATTLE TO THE FINISH.

Co-operation of Somerville and Cambridge police and city authorities, Federal officers, officers and Registrar of Motor Vehicles Parker was sought by the district attorney as what was termed a battle to the finish between law breakers and law enforcement agencies began.

Suggestion and consideration were given in the Somerville fight to the town which the rounders named "Gold Coast" district, setting their guards and beginning immediate patrol of the streets.

The same was to capacity in official circles, however, for it had been under consideration for a long time.

MANY COMPLAINTS MADE.

In 1925, State police raided the district upon order of then Dist. Atty. Arthur K. Reading, seizing thousands of gallons of liquor and gaining court convictions of about 50 defendants.

The police were immediately withdrawn from the district when for a time seemed to have been stamped out successfully. For some time past, however, Dist. Atty. Bushnell has received innumerable complaints from wives and mothers of men whose salaries were going almost weekly into the hands of Somerville bootleggers.

An investigation revealed that liquor traffic was again in full swing in the district and that taxicabs nightly were transporting loads, sometimes made up of students from nearby colleges, to houses in "Brickbottom" where liquor was being sold.

MANY RAIDS MADE.

Time and again the Somerville police went into the district, making raids and arrests.

As far as the Somerville officials could learn, not one of the proprietors of the places raided was ever convicted. Many of them, it was said, had been raided a dozen times or more.

Time and again, it was said, a proprietor would be arrested, his place padlocked and he would be fined in the district court. Then he would open another place in the district, or move his business to another part of the district, and start all over again.

Many of the proprietors, it was said, had been raided a dozen times and convicted. The bootlegger running it, another bootlegger employed by a behind-the-scenes owner of the dive, took over the job of running the resort.

The troopers had orders to search any vehicle suspected of transporting liquor and to seal all the occupants. Any cars seized would be claimed as forfeits of the state, Atty. Bushnell said.

District Court Judges and police officials of Cambridge and Somerville, and the plan of blockading the district and evoking the padlock law was evolved. The Judges agreed that all persons found guilty of violating the law within the deadline would be dealt with severely.

DRIVE OUT THE DIVES

"It was arranged that the district attorney's office be given a list of all cases appealed from the District courts and that the upholding of district court sentences would be demanded in the Superior Court.

"Brickbottom has been notorious for 25 years," continued Mr. Bushnell. "The raid of 1925 had no lasting effect. The only way to stop the liquor traffic here is to close up all of its dives, keep them closed, and drive the liquor sellers into the open. To my mind this new padlock law is the weapon which will accomplish the result desired. Under the old system of individual prosecutions one person, usually an agent of a liquor bootlegger, is convicted and another immediately fills his place. Now we can proceed against the very owners of a building, whether he knows his establishment is being used for liquor trafficking or not, and if he does, we can close the resort and keep it closed."

ACTS ON PADLOCK LAW

In his bills in equity, District Attorney Bushnell seeks to invoke the padlock law against owners to close the following houses:

Salvatore Trani, Ward st.
Maria de Valle, Ward st.
Aida Lombardi, Warren st.
Joseph Lazzaro, Somerville ave.
Joseph and Frances Sliski, South st.
Ciro M. Seigliano, South st.
Maria Rose Restuccia, Medford st.
Thomas Duffy, Medford st.
Giovanni Cusolito, two houses on Medford st.
Antonio and Marietta Grassia, Medford st.
Nicolna and Marianna Benedetti, Porter st.
Marcello and Consetta Zizzino, Hunting st.
Guiseppa Fraumeno, Hunting st.
Nathan and Jennie Rotman, Linn st.
Pasquale Reale, Joy st.
Francesco and Amelia Peluso, Somerville ave.
Umberto and Louis Biancanamo, Somerville ave.
Salvatore Cimo, Somerville ave.

DENS MUST BE CLOSED

The bills in equity will be transferred to Suffolk County for hearing on Monday. If the right to padlock is granted by the court, the establishments will be closed Monday night, Bushnell said.

The bills alleged the property has been used in violation of the liquor laws and that there have been three prior convictions in each instance.

If the courts close the establishments, all furnishings will be seized and sold by a sheriff and the places may not be reopened within a year for any purpose.

"While it may be argued that the police guard will drive the bootleggers from Brickbottom to other places," said Bushnell, "this vile nest of lawlessness will be obliterated, the organized liquor traffickers will be separated and local police will be better able to handle them individually wherever they may become active again."

OWNERS ARE NAMED.

Dist. Atty. Bushnell pointed out that in his equity proceedings the owners of the property are named in each instance, but that a "John Doe" clause will allow the "reaching" of anybody other than the owner who may be trafficking in liquor on the premises.

The padlock law which Bushnell seeks to employ went into effect July 1 and is being used on a wholesale scale for the first time in this state.

Today's move by the state troopers is to be taken as no reflection upon the Somerville police, who have done excellent work with the resources at their command, the district attorney pointed out.

DEMAND CHINA EVACUATE ALL U. S. PROPERTY

Shanghai, China, Aug. 8 (AP)—John Van A. MacMurray, American minister at Peking, has sent a note to the nationalist foreign minister calling attention to the failure of the Nationalist Government to fulfil promises made on several occasions to evacuate all American property occupied by soldiers and otherwise, and to prevent further such occurrences.

The note says, despite promises by the Nationalist Government only a portion of such properties have been evacuated, and even additional property has been seized.

As a "few (not a great many)" examples, the note instances the American Church mission and cathedral, the consulate at Nanking, the American Presbyterian missions and properties at Hsuchowfu, Tsining and Shantehfu which are occupied by the Chinese.

GOOD GIRL

By ROY L. FOLEY

Can a Girl Have Too Much Feminine Appeal?

CHAPTER 21

NANCY was as nervous as a witch on the morning of the day on which she was to make her first appearance as a model. Once when Miss Crosby called her, sharply, she jumped and dropped a box of pens, which went scattering across the floor.

"For pity's sake," Harriet cried, "what are you so fidgety about. Your mind certainly isn't in this office."

Nancy didn't deny it. She would have said something sharp, but thought better of it. There was no use in irritating Harriet, she thought. Besides, ever since her resolve to be more of a vamp Harriet had actually been a trifle more likeable.

The effect of a little rouge, and a new kind of haircut seemed to have had their effect. She even asked Nancy to go to lunch with her one day; all during the lunch hour she had done her best to get Nancy to tell just what led up to Westcott's love-making that day.

Nancy told nothing, not even when Harriet, affecting the softest tone, giggling even, asked Nancy point blank:

"Aren't you crazy about Mr. Westcott?"

"No. I'm not," Nancy lied.

A week ago it wouldn't have been so much of a lie as it was today, three days ago even, it wouldn't have been so much of a lie as it was to day. For Nancy, despite all the warnings of Wescott's kind by Ginger, despite Vic's threats that he would "knock the big bum for a row of cash cards" if he caught him "getting fresh" with Nancy, despite the whisperings of her own conscience, was becoming more and more infatuated with her handsome employer.

In every breath she took, in every word she said, she feared that she was revealing her feelings toward the dark eyed man who took what he wanted in this world, letting consequences go hang. Buying his way in and out of things, places, hearts. At least that was what Ginger and Vic seemed to think, but Nancy couldn't see that he was anything but a true gentleman. "He takes what he wants. Maybe it's true," she had told herself a hundred times the last few days. "Well, what of it. Don't other people take what they want, too? As for his making love to me, hasn't Vic himself tried to do that. Why does Vic think that Howard Wescott is any different than he is himself?

Men were a puzzle to Nancy. She was just wise enough to remind herself that if they were, it might be because she had had so little experience with them.

Of course Nancy had come in contact with traveling men, loiterers, students, tramps, even, in her young lifetime, but so far as men falling in love with her, wanting to hold her, to smother her with kisses—that was a different matter, and one in which she had to admit no experience.

"Of course you know Mr. Wescott has had affair after affair," Harriet continued "There are several society girls in town absolutely mad about him. There's one girl I know who used to call him continually, inviting him here and there, throwing herself at him, actually. You'd be surprised if you knew who she is, too. She's one of the most prominent girls on the gold coast."

"No, I wouldn't know who she is," Nancy had answered.

She tried to get off the subject. To tell the truth, when Harriet insisted upon telling about all the girls and women pursuing Wescott, she suffered little pangs of jealousy. It wasn't a pleasant sensation and she was half afraid Harriet might suspect.

"You've heard, of course, about his affair with the South American woman?"

"Please, Miss Crosby," Nancy said, with a trace of impatience. "I don't know a thing about Mr. Wescott and his love affairs and I really don't want to know about them. I'd rather talk about something else."

After that Harriet never mentioned the subject. Nancy, herself, took every precaution against a repetition of the scene Harriet had witnessed. When she was called into the inner office, she always swung the mahogany door wide open, so it would stay that way. Twice she had declined to go out in the evening with Wescott, and only once did she let him drive her home from work. She managed always to have an excuse when he asked her to get into his car.

How she hated to lie, how she longed to do just what she was prompted to do, to accept his invitations to drive, to dance. She longed to have him take her in his arms and waltz—waltz away into a blue heaven. How she yearned to get into his car, to have him drive her into the country, for miles and miles, the cool wind rushing into her face, her arm through his. Each night thoughts like this went dancing through her head as she tried to go to sleep.

Even when she was dancing with Vic Flemming she closed her eyes and imagined he was Howard Wescott. Whatever else Vic was, he was a wonderful dancer, and it took no great effort to imagine he was another with whom she was gliding over the floor.

Now, tonight, she was going to get into his car, and he was going to drive. He might even let her

MT. VESUVIUS IN ERUPTION

Naples, Italy, Aug. 8 (AP)—An eruption of Mount Vesuvius, likely to continue for several days, is reported by the observatory on the mountain.

A mouth of fire opened on the southwest side of the crater, and large quantity of highly-liquified lava poured forth rapidly, forming a lake about 70 meters in diameter.

A small cone blew off about 30 meters of its top which was thrown over a considerable distance.

It was felt there was no cause for alarm in the surrounding countryside.

Jiggs Wants Those Recipes at Once

Jiggs, McManus' funny strip character, is becoming tired of the way Dinty Moore fixes up corn' beef and cabbage. He is asking Boston Evening American readers to send in their ideas of just how this favorite dish of his could be improved on. For the best recipes he is offering three beautiful prizes. Maggie, of course, is not aware of his activities.

While corned beef and cabbage in its simple ingredients is a real home dish, famous chefs employ all their skill and experience to make it a savory combination for the jaded palates of patrons of world-famous restaurants. As prepared by chefs for epicures, however the homely combination of corned beef and cabbage is far from the inexpensive dish that economical housewives know.

Maggie Jiggs

COURET'S RECIPE

There is appended a recipe from a fashionable restaurant. Housewives may try this formula as to make a comparison with the results of their own methods. It comes from Pierre Couret, of the White Horse Tavern, New York. He was formerly of Henry's and of the Chateau Madrid, Paris.

The recipe follow:

Choose from the three kinds of corned beef—rump, plate and brisket. Rump is lean and solid, brisket is tender and fat. Plate is not so good. Use equal parts of rump and brisket. Should be allowed to soak for at least a week in brine—longer if possible.

BIGGER THE POT THE BETTER

The bigger the pot the better. It should be of copper or aluminum, as iron pots blacken both the meat and the vegetables.

First, boil the meat to get off the brine.

Second, boil again.

Third, skim off the foam.

Fourth, cook from four to six hours.

Fifth, use new white cabbage—quartered, with the outer leaves thrown away.

Sixth, when corned beef is done, cook the cabbage and potatoes in the juice until tender.

Seventh, to serve: Put the cabbage on the plate. Then cover with a layer of each kind of meat.

Eighth, horseradish sauce for a relish.

The best methods of preparing this dish are the subject of a National Corned Beef and Cabbage contest conducted by Jiggs, the Boston Evening American's celebrated comic character on Page 7. Full details regarding this will be found in another column.

CANDY WORSE THAN SMOKES FOR GIRLS

OPINION OF PHYSICIAN AT SMITH

Northampton, Aug. 8 — Smoking is not as harmful to girls as the continuous nibbling of sweets, according to an article by Dr. Anna Richardson, Smith College physician, in the First Alumni Quarterly, which made its appearance today.

Dr. Richardson said that two-thirds of the girls who graduated last June used cigarettes occasionally or habitually, and announced that beginning next fall students will be permitted to smoke in two special rooms in the basements of dormitories.

Heretofore, Smith College girls have not been permitted to smoke in the dormitories, but have been allowed to enjoy cigarettes on the shores of Paradise Pond and in the Northampton tea room. The special smoking-rooms are now under construction and will be ready when the college reopens, Dr. Richardson said.

The physician in her article said that in the graduating class of 386 girls, 21 percent smoked 5 to 20 cigarettes a day, and about 21 percent smoked regularly one or more a day, usually after meals. The writer stated that 23 per cent smoked occasionally either for social reasons or because they did not wish to feel that they were "silent rebukes" to their friends.

Referring to the effects of tobacco on health, Dr. Richardson wrote that smoking in itself is probably not so actually harmful as ruthlessly nibbling sweets.

Hell Brothers to Change Name by Court Permit

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 8 —Stating that their family name, "Hell," has resulted in embarrassment to them when forced to give it in public places, Alphonse Hell of Pelham and his brother, Alfred Hell of New Rochelle, applied to change their name to "Heill." Supreme Court Justice Beckley, casting aside all customs as to questioning applicants, summarily granted the application.

The brothers are required to publish their petition in county newspapers, and if no objections are filed they may assume their new name on September 17.

3 CUBAN SHIPS HUNT MISSING SOCIETY PARTY

Havana, Aug. 8 (AP)—Three auxiliary schooners belonging to the Cuban Government and with rural guards aboard today set out to search for a motorboat missing since Sunday in the vicinity of the Isle of Pines. The party on the boat includes persons prominent in Havana society.

COOLIDGES MAY VISIT VERMONT

Superior, Wis., Aug. 8 (INS) —President and Mrs. Coolidge will remain in Wisconsin until about September 10, it was learned today.

Excellent fishing on the Brule river and adjoining lakes is proving so alluring for the executive that a decision has been reached to stay at Cedar Island lodge longer than originally planned. The President also is particularly pleased with the completeness of the isolation he is enjoying.

Tentative arrangements under consideration call for a trip from here direct to Plymouth, Vt., the President's boyhood home, where a few days will be spent before the return to Washington.

Rats on the bunk of the last campaign.
That kind of stuff is for the voters.
It wouldn't go big with General Motors.

SENATOR PRAISES NATIONAL SCOPE OF BIG VOTE

will be recorded together with an analytical review of the figures in an effort to approximate, if not definitely indicate, what will be the verdict of the American electorate on November.

All probable sources of inaccuracies are to be eliminated in the nation-wide canvass. The main weaknesses to be guarded against—duplications and repeating—are provided for so perfectly that these hazards have been eliminated.

All other weaknesses characteristic of ordinary straw votes have been carefully studied and methods devised to reduce them to a negligible minimum.

The plan, then, which is as error proof as it seems humanly possible to make it in an undertaking of this kind and of such scope, will be put into operation under the direction of the following Hearst newspapers:

Boston Evening American.
Boston Sunday Advertiser.
Chicago Herald and Examiner.
Seattle Post Intelligencer.
San Francisco Examiner.
Oakland Post Inquirer.
Los Angeles Examiner.
San Antonio Light.
Omaha Bee-News.
Milwaukee-Wisconsin News.
Detroit Times.
Atlanta Georgian.
Washington (D. C.) Herald.
Baltimore News.
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.
New York American.
Rochester (N. Y.) Journal.
Syracuse (N. Y.) American.

FARM VOTE INCLUDED

Previous straw votes have been confined largely to the great cities and thickly populated rural districts adjoining urban centers. One of the big problems confronting the pollsters today is: "How will the farmer vote?" The test ballots of the Hearst newspapers will endeavor to furnish an answer to this before the votes are counted next November.

In the doubtful states every section will be canvassed.

Women as well as men will be given an opportunity of expressing their choice.

Above all, the ballot will be secret. No effort will be made to ascertain how any persons vote. The Hearst newspapers are not interested in the opinion of any individual. As honest effort will be made to get an accurate expression of the collective views of the nation and forecast who will be the next President.

MARRIES SEPT. 1

Saturday, Sept. 1, has been chosen as the date of the marriage of Miss Isabel Gurnee Thorndike of 175 Marlboro st., Boston and Bar Harbor, Me. She will wed Z. Bennett Phelps, Jr., of Binghampton, N. Y. The ceremony is to take place in St. Saviour's Church at Bar Harbor, and is to be followed by a reception at Ambleside, summer home of Miss Thorndike's parents.

STRATON SAYS HE'LL DEBATE WITH SMITH

New York, Aug. 8 (INS)—Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, today accepted the challenge of Governor Alfred E. Smith to debate the charges made by Straton in a sermon last Sunday, that the Governor was "the avowed friend of the forces of anarchy, lawlessness, vice and crime, in the land today," and "the deadliest foe of moral progress in America."

Dr. Straton at his summer home at Greenwood Lake, N. Y., issued a statement in which he said: "As a matter of fair play," he would repeat the sermon of Sunday to "Governor Smith's face and in his hearing" giving him full opportunity to reply.

Straton's statement says, also:

"I am not a candidate for Governor or in New York and repeat the charges. However, I believe the discussion should be held in Madison Square Garden or some other large auditorium. Calvary Baptist Church can accommodate one of the largest audiences of any church in the city, but it would not be fair to exclude the rest of people who would want to hear such a debate.

"Inasmuch as Governor Smith was a note of warning to the Southern Democracy, which I love so well because I was born and bred in the South, I believe it would be appropriate for Gov. Smith to swing around the circle with me and debate in the South the issues raised by my sermon."

Reed's Dry Foe Wins in Missouri Primary

St. Louis, Aug. 8 (AP)—Charles H. May, Missouri dry leader and bitter opponent of Senator James A. Reed, was apparently nominated today on Democratic candidate for United States Senator, as more than half the precincts had reported in the Missouri primary. May had a lead of 12,125 votes over James A. Collet, a wet, sponsored by Reed, who is retiring after 18 years' senate service.

In the Republican senatorial race Roscoe Patterson of Kansas City was leading his nearest opponent, Nathan Frank, of St. Louis lawyer, by 4,275.

The Democratic gubernatorial nominee is Francis M. Wilson of Platte City, who leads State Senator A. L. McCawley of Carthage, author of the Missouri dry law, by 10,250 votes.

Henry S. Caulfield, St. Louis, a former circuit judge, is apparently the Republican choice for Governor with a lead of 20,168 over Lieut.-Gov. Phil a Gepnett, a dry.

MEMORIAL'S BEACON TO BE AIR GUIDE

A hundred years from now, an aviator making a trip from France to Boston, a journey of small importance a century ahead, will notice as he nears the Boston airport a steady beam of light, piercing the night's blackness and bringing gladness to the flier's heart.

"The Boston Airport" he will exclaim and though he does not voice this there will be a thrill of gratitude for the thought which made this beacon possible.

The beacon will top the memorial tower, which is being planned as a permanent tribute to New England's heroes of the air and to the fliers of today, who are bringing new honors to Boston.

A committee composed of members of the Crosscup-Fiske Post, of the American Legion, the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the National Aeronautic Association and other public spirited citizens have been hard at work gathering funds for the building of the memorial, but much remains to be done before "finis" can be written to the undertaking.

Governor Fuller heads the honorary committee and has given his enthusiastic approval to the plan.

The active committee is headed by Capt. Robert F. Raymond, Jr., himself a hero of the air, and a member of the Crosscup-Fiske Post, American Legion, who is taking a prominent part in the undertaking.

Contributions may be sent to Ralph M. Eastman, treasurer, State st. Trust Co., Boston.

LONG CALLS MANY TAX RATES MISLEADING

To divide a taxpayer is not only wrong but can result in but transitory advantage, yet many tax rates are misleading, Henry F. Long, commissioner of corporations and taxation, declared today before the annual summer conference of assessors and collectors of the four western counties at Cummington. He said that no rate has the significance, but does not tell the ratio of taxpayer to the taxpayer for local government is his proportion of the exact amount the municipality must pay to meet current obligations.

HOOVER TURNS TO BAY STATE FOR VICTORY

Stanford University, Cal., Aug. 8 (INS)—A Republican victory in the presidential race, as viewed by Herbert Hoover today, rests on the outcome in New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey.

This represents a consensus of political forecasts given the Republican nominee in the month since he left his desk in the Department of Commerce. The nominee was said personally to feel that his party would return its normal majority in the Far West, the mountain States, the farm belt and the Middle West and that the big battle lies along the Atlantic seaboard.

With this in mind, Hoover will return to Washington after his notification here next Saturday and spend the remaining time of the campaign on the actual battle ground.

After listening to pre-campaign reports, Hoover leaned toward the advice of such men as Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, who told him he would have a hard battle in the East, but could win with a properly organized campaign.

The nominee, on several occasions, has chatted the subject when some of his visitors spoke of landslide victories in all sections of the country.

Hoover was to confer with a delegation from Los Angeles today about his visit to that city after the notification ceremony.

W. H. Newell of Portland, a former food administration associate, was the nominee's guest at luncheon and declared to Hoover dreams would go overwhelmingly Republican this year.

Farmers' Candidate Leads Kansas Primary

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 8 (AP)—Clyde M. Reed, of Parsons, strongly backed by farm organizations, maintained his substantial lead for the Republican nomination for governor when returns were tabulated early today from approximately one third of the precincts in Kansas.

In the Democratic contest for the gubernatorial nomination Chauncey B. Little of Olathe, former member of Congress, was in the lead but he was having a hard fight with Ed. T. Hackney, Wellington lawyer.

2 IDENTIFIED IN 'MYSTERY GAS SWINDLE'

Two men held in Charles st. jail for an attempted green goods larceny from a resident of Brighton, were today identified as Karul Kutra and John Keery, wanted on charges of larceny of $2000 from Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller of Heela st., Dorchester.

The identification was made by Inspectors James Driscoll and Thomas Joyce of headquarters, who revealed that the Millers narrowly escaped death from a mysterious gas poisoning the night their two lodgers, alleged to be Kutra and Keery, disappeared.

According to the inspectors, Kutra and Keery roomed at the home of the Millers, then in Hudson st., South End, in May, 1927. After several months' hardships, the two men informed Mrs. Miller they had made their fortunes and intended to return to Poland.

Miller, on returning home that night, congratulated the two men, police say, and was informed that because of the kindness of himself and his wife in letting the lodger's bill run sometime previously, they would be recompensed. The pair then showed their landlord and landlady a strong box containing apparently a large quantity of money, and confided that they were going to permit Mrs. Miller to keep it for them until their departure.

The police say the couple were induced, however, to draw $2000 from a bank, and add it to the sum in the box which was then produced in the hands of Mrs. Miller. The lodgers announced they intended to leave for a visit to New York the next day, but they went that night shortly before another roomer smelled gas emanating from the Millers' bedroom.

GOES TO COURT SOBER, SO HE IS SENTENCED

Angelo Arbeney was sober today—so he was fined $200 in Lynn court and sentenced to three months in the House of Correction.

Arbeney, who lives in Muncos st., Lynn, was originally arraigned yesterday, but when Judges Lovett observed the defendant swaying he ordered Arbeney into a nice cool cell for the night. He pleaded the fine and sentence on the charge of keeping and selling liquor.

For the Men Who Are Fighting YOUR Campaign of Courage!

A straight talk with every Smith voter!

If you could read the hundreds of letters pouring in on us every day—you would know just why Alfred E. Smith has fired the imagination of a whole people. "The man", as one letter puts it, "who has once more put a premium on courage in American public life". Courage! Matched by amazing executive ability—yes! Matched by an honesty his worst enemy has never dared to question—yes! But above all—courage! Determined to drive pussyfooting from American politics. Determined to let every man, woman and child know exactly what he thinks, whether they like it or not. A man who has never left a job half-done; whose word means achievement! And with him a man of the same fibre and courage, Joe T. Robinson. These are the men you and we want every American voter to know—by press, by radio, by letter, by their own forthright words spread everywhere. And for once we want this task to be a nation-wide partnership. Your campaign! Yes—everybody's!

Your Dollars Will Help Broadcast the Honesty, the Splendid Ability and the Fearless Leadership of the Most Talked-of Men in America

There may be a future national champion among this group of youngsters who are playing in the Hearst golf tournament for boys at the Blue Hill Country Club. The lads shoot great golf. They can give any golfer a run for his money. The champion, one of this group, will be crowned after the finals tomorrow morning.

"You have heard of some actors that can't be 'doubled' in the movies. Well, OLD GOLD is like that. No other brand can 'double' its fine flavor and smoothness ... even in the dark. That's why I picked it in the blindfold test. And that's why ... from now on ... OLD GOLD and I are going to be 'Partners in Crime.'"

Wallace Beery

Why you can pick them . . . Only the golden-ripe heart-leaves are used in OLD GOLDS.

How the test was made . . .

THIS test was conducted by the representative of a leading Eastern university and a disinterested witness selected by them. Mr. Beery was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, while blindfolded, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked, "... which one do you like best?"

REPAIRING A CHILD

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

WHEN the fall term of school approaches, as many of us spend hours shopping and outing and sewing in order that Johnny and Susie may have neat, practical clothes to wear to school. This is of course necessary, and an admirable idea, but——

Do you remember last summer when you were getting ready to go on that motor trip? Were your first thoughts of the car concerned with a new paint job—how the family "hus" was to look, or were they more tied up with the necessity of having the machine overhauled, greased and scrutinized carefully for any weak parts which needed replacing, so that the trip could be made in your destination and back without delay and inconvenience, to say nothing of preventative measures concerning accidents?

If I am not mistaken, your car was given a thorough inspection INSIDE, oiled up, greased and supplied with a tank full of gasoline. You had to stop sometimes to replenish the fuel supply, of course, as the engine supplied your motive power—your means of getting there—was put in good order before you drove out of the garage.

We will not give our children any such attention than the family auto mobile, of course, as before you start working on the outside appearance of Johnny, be sure his engine and interior valves and cylinders are in such shape that he can start and finish his long journey of a school year with but the additional re-stocking of his nourishment supply each day.

Figures and statistics are uninteresting, but for just a moment let us look at a room filled with children, a schoolroom. Three-quarters of them are undernourished. Half of them have tonsils riddled with holes, and nearly half have teeth which are decayed and suppurating their bodies with poison. One-eighth of them are hard of hearing, this defect resulting in three and one-half times as many children so affected repeating their grades as children whose hearing is normal.

These figures were compiled through a conscientious research and investigation through eleven States in our country, and were based on the condition not of most children but of children whose parents could well afford to give them medical attention. They were children from comfortable homes, homes boasting a car and a radio in most cases.

So, before you give much more thought to how many pairs of pajamas will carry Johnny through the Winter—in other words, before you further consider the "paint job"—take him to a physician and see that his engine is in such shape that it will carry him victoriously to the end of his school term. He doesn't want to fail. You don't want him to. His little friends will go on, and he wants to go on, to progress and nourish his new sensation of strength and self-confidence. Do not let him taste the bitter waters of failure in school when you can in a great measure prevent it by giving him a fair start by putting him in good physical running order. It doesn't seem a great deal to ask of parents, when it is merely suggested that they give their youngster as good a running start as they do the family car. It pays in both instances.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

EVERY now and then, some man rises up in court and protests violently that his wife "makes him wash the dishes," for which indignity he demands a divorce.

All of which goes to prove that the beautiful theory of the "fifty-fifty" marriage does not work except in the imagination. It is still just a sweet dream!

The modern wife may help bring home the bacon and bear half the household expenses, but where will any woman find a man who will do half the marketing, half the planning and half the worrying when the cook is late?

She may cheerfully pay half the bills for the imported china, the drawing-room curtains, and the table linen—but what man ever lay awake nights figuring out how to place the furniture or insisted on ironing the embroidered doilies with his own fair hands?

When a man actually takes care of his OWN clothes, counts his own laundry, and picks up his own shoes, half the neighbors applaud him as a world-wonder, and the other half secretly despise him as a "henpecked hubby."

He, himself, feels that he is something between a martyr and a mythycoddle. He doesn't know whether he should be wearing a halo, a gold medal or a fool's cap.

A normal man never asks, "Have you seen my hat?" He asks, "Where'd you PUT my hat?"

He doesn't inquire thoughtfully, "What shall we have for dinner today?" He demands, royally, "Well, what've we GOT for dinner?"

He never suggests sweetly, "Come, let's put up the window curtains, dear."

He groans, "Have I GOTTA put up those curtains?"

When he wants to sleep late on Sunday mornings, it's "HIS house," but when the furnace won't work it's "Why do you keep YOUR house so cold?"

Man has escaped all those soul-harrowing, little domestic responsibilities ever since Eve furnished the first meal. And he will never be so stupid as to take them on himself voluntarily.

And even when one of them DOES try it, he usually makes such a muddle of it that a woman is only too glad to hand him his hat and his golf clubs and tell him to "run out and play" while she straightens things out.

Of course, every successful marriage IS a Fifty-Fifty Marriage. It is the sense that it is perfect TEAM WORK. But until the Lord changes masculine human nature, the happiest marriages will be those in which the man does the heavy pulling, and the woman does the weeping, the planning and the DISH WASHING!

'The Test of Love'

Synopsis—Not since "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has a story created such a storm of controversy among press and clergy as "London Society or Soryou's Secret Teaching." The story has been condemned by silence in the pulpit while the press has chosen to brazenly ignore it. As a result, its success is epidemic, to say the least.

SWEET BRIER FARM.

ELSIE sat alone for hours —motionless. Leaning her head wearily upon the window sill, her eyes resting upon the large house opposite, where her husband, Sir Harry Doncaster, had just drawn aside the rich curtains at the bidding of his mistress.

With what a sneering grace the Lady Doncaster reclined upon that white satin bedspell! Now the soft light fell upon her fair form, no soft dark, ebon! Passing well those rare gems became her slender fingers.

Elsie De Vaux Doncaster's eyes noted it all. A sudden thought seemed to inspire her. She started up, bathed her pale face, smoothed her ringlets, and arrayed herself with more than usual care. The jewled automatic.

Revise on "The Song of the Flea"

I think that I shall never see
A single blooming blank-blank flea;
The flea who seeks me, unafraid,
And smacks me on the shoulder blade.
How often with exceeding care
I strip off shirt and underwear
And seek him, but my search is vain.
So I replace my clothes again.
And though he has escaped my sight
He lingers still, with mad delight;
He hops from hiding, growing bolder,
And bites me on the other shoulder!
Bum verse is made by fools like me,
But, who, oh! who, produced the flea?

BEST FOOT FORWARD

By LUCY LOWELL.

"PUT your best foot forward," is sound advice. But better still, keep both feet at their best and put them forward by taking an energetic walk every day of your life.

Be careful, I beg of you, about the shoes you wear for walking. It is natural to wish to wear pretty shoes. But many a young girl has handicapped herself in the beauty race by forcing her feet into pointed toes, short vamps and spindle heels on all occasions until her arches are weakened and broken, robbing her walk of all spontaneous, natural grace. Corns, bunions and callouses do not worry the woman who wears shoe having moderate heels and flexible arches on the street and for walking. Also, her feet are so supple and fit that she can don the prettiest of evening slippers for a few hours each evening—high heels and all—without harming her arches or throwing her body out of alignment. Reduce your heels gradually if you are accustomed to French heels, then your feet will become accustomed to the change and you will grow supple and lovely with uncrossed pink toes.

A dainty woman takes as exquisite care of her feet as she does of her hands and complexion. Special pedicure sets for trimming the nails can be bought, with nippers and rasps or files expressly designed to use on the toe nails. You will find, however, that an ordinary emery-an energetic walk every day of your life.

'Gas' Man Adds Watermelon Why New Competitors Arise

By B. C. FORBES

New York, Aug. 8.—"Look at the watermelons!" exclaimed my eight-year-old as we passed a neighboring gasoline station.

This was the first day I had added anything to its regular product. The child could not understand what the gasoline man should be selling melons.

Do the rest of us understand why, I wonder?

Only a week ago I saw this process reversed. The farmer from whom we had occasion to buy bought vegetables blossomed out as gas station owner.

B. C. Forbes

On a recent long ride in Pennsylvania and New Jersey I noticed that many gas stations had set up elaborate fruit and vegetable stands. At other points the supply of gas was supplemented by soft drinks and candies.

"Gas and Hot Dogs" was a not uncommon sight.

Thus we have the gas retailer becoming a vegetable and fruit retailer, a candy retailer and a purveyor of hot dogs, while on the other hand, the farmer is now branching out as a gas station proprietor on the side. So have some rural storekeepers.

These homely illustrations are typical of an economic movement of far-reaching importance now under way.

Competition has become so severe, the quest for sales has become so keen, the pressure for economies has become so great that we witness widespread poaching by various lines of business into other lines.

The tobacco store often today sells confections, nuts and a variety of other goods not connected with tobacco. The up-to-date drug shop of magnificent carries almost as many different items as a department store. You find butchers furnishing vegetables as well as fish. Grocers carry anything and everything in which they see a possible penny of profit. It is not unusual today for barbers to sell tobacco, candies and a varied assortment of knick-knacks.

This invading of one other fellow's territory is not confined to retail merchandising by any means. Overlapping and competition is quite intense in basic manufacturing industries. Indeed, interindustrial competition has threatened the prosperity, not to say the existence, of more than one old-established industry.

Also, inroads are being made as never before by substitutes for natural products.

Take the lumber industry as a shining example of these modern forms of outside competition. Two cement people have succeeded in ousting lumber from many kinds of projects. The iron and steel industry has also succeeded in driving out lumber from various old-time uses. Not only so, but such manufactured products as celotex, beaverboard and the like are today being utilized in a thousand and one directions where formerly lumber would have been employed. The copper people have exercised brilliant advertising and salesmanship in having their product take the place of wooden shingles. Boxes and other containers formerly made of wood have been discarded in favor of metal or cardboard or other containers.

At this moment an aggressive fight is in progress between two lusty industries, namely, domestic refrigeration. The electric industry is championing the use of electric current to supply refrigeration, whereas the gas industry is making a heroic fight to have its product employed for this purpose. These two industries are coming to grips in various other directions.

Independent retailers are complaining of chain stores, and the chain stores find a new competitor entering the ring against them in the great mail order houses are rapidly opening up chains of retail stores in thriving cities and towns.

In finance we see the big national banks organizing nation-wide forces and activities. A lot of business used to be performed by private investment bankers.

In short, there are few lines of business which are immune from one or other of the newer forms of competition.

The fundamental reason for all this is as old as the hills, namely, the eternal struggle for existence, for self-preservation, for victory. There is no law more ceaseless in its operation than the law of change throughout the whole realm of business. Wherever men see opportunity to make money, they are at full tilt regardless of the economic effect upon anyone else.

Happily, there is a bright and encouraging side to it all. These kaleidoscopic changes constantly open up new outlets for initiative and enterprise, and they create a host of young brains, affording them scope for the achievement of fortune and, sometimes, fame.

With photography science does wonders, takes pictures of stars not seen through the telescope and shows "outside universes" 1,000,000 light years from our galaxy.

A light year is the distance that light travels in a year, going 186,000 miles a second. One million light years is a long journey.

Now the camera, analyzing a lightning stroke for engineers of the General Electric Company, shows that lightning goes about its business swiftly.

It developed 2,500,000 volts in forty millionths of a second.

When will Mr. Gerard Swope, boss of General Electric, show a machine to harness and use lightning?

Our gangsters take their murdering seriously — vengefully. Frankie Uale, boss of Brooklyn's underworld, shot to death as he rode in his fine limousine which was buried in a $30,000 coffin.

Mr. Raskob, manager of the national Democratic campaign, intends to know all about farm relief, and has engaged Professor Seligman, learned economist of Columbia College, to look into to the matter.

Mr. Raskob says he has never read the McNary-Haugen bill, but he agrees with Governor Smith that an equalization fee, which would make government and taxpayers meet the cost of selling surplus farm products, is not to be tolerated. A better plan can be found.

But Great Britain depends on it. If that stream, which is Britain's hot water system, were cut off, London would be as cold as Labrador, Scotland would freeze and the fifty million people would move hastily to the Dominions.

GLORIA'S HUBBY GIVEN MOVIE SCOUT JOB

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1928, Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8.—Marquis De La Falaise De Coudray is not to be a movie actor. Hanks can soon for not making the picture for which he was slated is the change given him to go to Europe as scout extraordinary for Pathe, First National and Pathe.

All plans were made for the Marquis' first movie, the story was selected and Harry Edwards, for whom he was doubling in polo, had everything ready to shoot. But the chance to travel through Europe, exporting these productions was much to refuse. The Marquis left Friday.

Speaking French, German, Italian and several other languages, he will be able to report on the film conditions in the various countries.

Hank's qualifications for this job are a close association with motion pictures as Gloria Swanson's husband.

This, of course, will start divorce rumors. Every time Henry goes to Paris both Gloria and he spend their days denying a divorce.

MARRIAGE don't changed Adolphe Menjou's opinion of his wife, Kathryn Carver Menjou as a leading lady. When she was his financee he was the first to insist that she be the heroine in his comedy of errors. At Paramous Players-Lasky did not take kindly to this idea for Adolphe Menjou is a big drawing card and they wanted an actress of more experience, but determination won out.

The result was Miss Carver played opposite the sophisticated Adolphe Menjou. Now they are rewed Adolphe isn't going to let matrimoney interfere with his plans for his wife. She starts as leading lady in his next picture to be directed by Frank Tuttle.

"Paris," the Menjou farce, has been spoken of as the next Menjou comedy, but I believe this is being held in abeyance and no decision has been actually made on the story.

"STARK MAD." Ouch, what a name! I hear "Stark Mad" is new." the order of the day. I think "Stark Mad" is worse. Over at Warner Brothers' studio where each succeeding "Vitaphone" is more unlikable, this is being discussed as something to leave home over. They have given it to Warner Baxter cast with Lois Wilson, Louise Fazenda, Lionel Belmore and Andre Berangier. It's to be 100 per cent talkie.

Lois Wilson can now thank her lucky stars that she had so many months' stage experience out here in Hollywood. All of her talkies that have been on the stage are getting all the best breaks.

SOUND to the right of us, sound to the left of us, sound in every Hollywood studio. Wherever pictures are made there is all one hears. Most of the companies are building sound proof stages so that in the future all of the talkies are here to stay. "The Shop" by Alexander Woolcott has been purchased by United Artists and will be an all-talkie.

Conrad Nagel, who leaves for New York shortly to engage some new talent, is now looking over the actors and actresses available, with a view to casting this newest acquisition. Another picture that is to be synchronized is "The Last Warning." Universal is now putting in the noise.

RAOUL WALSH, back from his honeymoon, is getting ready to shoot an O. Henry story soon. That sounds in direct contradiction to the item I printed a few days ago that the Fox director would do a big talkie special, based on Earl Derr Biggers' story, "Behind the Curtain," but before he wields the megaphone on the big picture he will turn out a small one. He is going to need lots of work to get the right cast for it is going to be one of Fox's best efforts.

WILLIAM DE MILLE'S joint experience of stage dramatist and motion picture director will hold him in good stead. He will know when and where to use proper dialogue. He will know the camera and cost. Offer with no powers that be on other sound pictures to be produced on the coast. Director of Bill De Mille's best work was done for Famous-Players-Lasky and it will be like coming home for him to be among those present on the Paramount lot.

ESTELLE TAYLOR writes to say she is deep in rehearsal for David Belasco eleven hours a day without lunch, supper and sleep. She never ever dared to be, and in weather that is hotter than it has been in New York for years.

It does not look as if the Dempseys will be home for some months. They play opening in Chicago and will play the East before it comes to Hollywood. Which means Jean Peters Estelle will get in the home town.

IN REPLY REFER TO

Mr. J. B. Sheridan, Director,
Missouri Committee on Public Utility Information,
4726 Delmar Boulevard,
St. Louis, Missouri.

Dear Mr. Sheridan:

This is a delayed acknowledgment of the receipt of your letter to us of November 20 and 21, with reference to the Mountain Grove situation. As an organization, we are, of course, much interested in all local activities which may be due to Stone & Webster's municipal ownership undertakings wherever agitations threaten any action. The situation seems attractive, however, presented a little difficulty, inasmuch as that property, so far as stone companies in which we are interested are concerned, has rather remotely located, which tends to lead to interference with the getting of direct help. It is not very comforting, therefore, to learn of your unfamiliarity with the situation, and to find that you were available and willing to go to bat, in case of sell, as a genuine relief. A horse run, we come, would result if you did go to bat, and we were happy to have the case in your hands.

Mention of your convalescence I shall allow to learn the outcome of the alcohol which, if my memory is correct, took place on Tuesday, last.

With personal regards, I am

Yours very truly,

A. Flor

A. Flor (20)

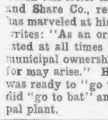
HERE is the essence of a campaign electric power interests, pulling wires from as far away as Cuba and New York City, waged to prevent Mountain Grove, a Missouri town of 2000, from generating its own lighting current. Mountain Grove was dissatisfied with its service from a privately owned plant which had raised rates and then suspended service for a time, it is shown in the Federal Trade Commission record in which this letter is an exhibit. A. Flor, of the Electric Bond and Share Co., replying to the Missouri propagandist who has marveled at his "taking care of so many minute details," writes: "As an organization, we are, of course, much interested at all times in doing everything we can to discourage municipal ownership undertakings wherever agitations there-for may arise." He is happy that the Missouri propagandist was ready to "go to bat, in case of call." The propagandist did "go to bat" and Mountain Grove failed to get its municipal plant.

POLICE USE OLD LAW TO PUNISH ROAD ERRORS

POWER TRUST A 'BOOSTER' FOR OWN ENDS

By FRANK A. GOODWIN
Highway Safety Editor, Boston Evening American and Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Yesterday I received a letter from a resident of Dorchester taking exception to the statement in a recent installment of this series to the effect that there is no law in



Frank A Goodwin

Massachusetts, preventing the operator from passing a street car on the left.

He said in part: "You are statement that a person cannot be prosecuted for passing a street car on the left reminds me of the man in jail whose friend went to bail him out. They can't put you in jail for that,' said the friend, 'No, but I'm here.' They may not be able to prosecute for passing a street car on the left, but I paid a fine in the Roxbury court for doing just that."

I think my friend is mistaken, for, although the offense he committed was not against the law, the offense charged was "not keeping as close as possible to the right curb."

OLD LAW USED

Long before automobiles became common, the Street Commission, which had the power to make traffic rules and regulations for Boston, made one requiring vehicles to keep close to the right curb. The police in certain divisions have been using that regulation to punish motorists for passing street cars on the left. If the writer had fought the case out in the Superior Court he, doubtless, would have acquitted.

While the rule requiring vehicles to keep as close to the right curb as possible, may have been all right for the slow moving horse-drawn vehicles, it is a dangerous rule for fast moving automobiles. In many sections of the city our sidewalks are also with children, running out suddenly in play and it must be apparent that fast moving vehicles should keep out nearer the middle of the road for safe operation.

RULE IS DANGEROUS

I am not sure but I think the Street Commission should have this amended this rule, and it certainly ought to be changed. To pass a street car on the left is dangerous where there are many pedestrians is a very dangerous practice and, no doubt, the police are looking around for some way to prevent it, but upon the "close to the curb" regulation.

The police might have prosecuted, and got convictions under the charge of "operating so that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered," and a conviction for this offense would automatically result in the revocation of license for a period of sixty days.

If there is any one thing that mothers should warn children of above all others it is running in front of moving vehicles, because there are so many fool operators who will speed in congested areas.

Washington, Aug. 8 — Power propagandists became "boosters" for towns and states to widen their "contacts" and cloak their propaganda for "general betterment of utilities," Federal Trade Commission record show.

In Missouri, Texas and Kansas especially, letters and reports told of their pumping into local and state movements of every variety. E. W. Hodges, former Arkansas propaganda director, reported to a national meeting of his fellow-workers that his bureau helped organize 37 chambers of commerce and more than two dozen playground associations.

"We worked with the schools, with the county fairs, with the state fairs," he added.

BOOSTING FORMULA.

A formula for this "boosting" was given by J. B. Sheridan, Missouri propagandist, in a description of his activities. Sheridan wrote it in a set of notes for a speech he had asked to give in Maine at a meeting of state propagandists for exchange of trade secrets.

Sheridan's report

"Secretary Missouri committee travels by auto over state, meeting newspaper men, operators, high school principals, mayors, legislators, etc., as he goes.

"When he gets to a town he usually writes a nice interview with himself, boosting the town, the country thereabouts, the high school principal, points out the great opportunities the city has in it has, compliments the people generally and then drags in a little utility matter at the end from time to time.

MARKS FRIENDS.

"The small city papers usually print his stuff on the first page and many large papers give it prominent position. He makes friends for the utilities.

"From time to time the secretary drops in with the local operator to the Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Commercial Club, etc., and when introduced makes a short talk, boosting the city, its citizens, alludes to the necessities of the utilities, cracks a few jokes, pays a few compliments and sits down, a matter of four or five minutes.

"We find this personal touch with the utility operators and the people very valuable. It gets the utilities much publicity and wins them many friends."

Sheridan followed this up later by assuming leadership in the activities of associations of editors, according to his letters.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS HONOR PAUL F. CLARK

Paul F. Clark, general agent of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., in this city, was the unanimous choice of members of the Boston Life Underwriters Association for the highest office in the national organization.

His name was proposed at a mid-summer meeting of the local association assembled to further his candidacy and election at the annual convention of the American Life Underwriters Association to be held in Detroit, Mich., September 12 to 14.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE ☆ ☆ BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN ☆ BOSTON, AUGUST 8, 1928

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastisy at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages: Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prospey of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use ofmodern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in ever way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New Englai agriculture to better marketing methods.

Definitely Established

United States Is the World's Leading Market for Capital

This last year has seen the United States definitely established as the world's leading market for capital.

Our foreign investments in 1927 amounted to $1,376,000,000, as against only $674,000,000 loaned abroad by Great Britain, according to the authoritative figures of the National Industrial Conference Board.

We are going ahead still more rapidly in 1928. In the first six months of this year we bought $1,053,000,000 of foreign securities, in the same period Great Britain absorbed only $293,000,000, less than one-third of the amount which was placed in the United States.

These figures are significant in many directions.

1—Our enormous foreign investments are a leading reason for the growth of our export trade, particularly in manufactures, in which we are beginning to dominate foreign markets.

Money loaned for the construction of a railroad in Colombia or in China generally means—and always should mean—a railroad built by American engineers, using American rails and rolling stock, and in the future calling for additional American material as the equipment wears out. In the words of the old British proverb, "Trade follows the investment."

2—In the face of these figures, the "hands off" foreign policy of the pacifists in Congress is a policy of nonsense.

The twenty-five thousand million dollars owed us from abroad (an amount equal to the total national wealth of the kingdom of Italy) gives us an unexampled stake in the maintenance of peace and order in the world.

But it also confronts our government with the necessity of providing a policy and a means of protecting our legitimate rights when threatened in the world.

3—Specifically, the navy is the means of protecting American lives and property and trade abroad and on the high seas. Since our foreign interests are now equal to those of England, and will soon become far greater, England cannot consistently criticise our possession of a navy equal to hers. No American ought to be satisfied with anything else.

4—Acting together, the American and British navies, strengthened by airplane carriers and the mobile air forces which will be the heart of sea power in the future, can be the greatest single influence for world peace and order.

Violin—Finest Instrument

A Fine Young Artist, Also

THE VIOLIN ADDS TO A YOUNG GIRL'S BEAUTY

This talented young actress is Erna Rubenstein, a Hungarian girl of great promise, now playing in the United States. Hear her if you have the chance.

Young ladies of the United States, please notice how sensibly this girl of talent dresses, how pretty and becoming the velvet concert dress is. Just high enough, just low enough in the neck. And, although the picture doesn't show it, we assure you that it comes well below the girl's knees.

She has common sense.

This, however, is about the VIOLIN, noblest of all instruments, from the savage's tom-tom, or hollow tree trunk, beaten with clubs, all the way up to the grand piano and the pealing organ.

The violin comes nearest to the human voice. It is the absolutely perfect musical instrument.

And the violin, even better than the harp, emphasizes the beauty and grace of a young woman playing it.

The artist with a violin actually creates the music in the instrument with the power of his own feeling. He does not hit a hammer against strings, but actually touches the strings with the bow, that contact being the expression of his own emotion and feeling.

There has probably been no finer music ever heard on

A RADIO CAMPAIGN FOR PRESIDENCY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN 1920 Station KDKA of Pittsburgh played a Listz rhapsody on an automatic piano and asked the audience whether they liked it and if they wanted any more.

In a week the electrical shops in Pittsburgh and the surrounding country sold out all their radio supplies. The people liked it and so radio broadcasting was born.

From one station in 1920 to 700 in 1928.

No industry that we know of has developed so rapidly as the radio business.

Those of us who were half inclined to buy the stock a short time ago when it was selling around 90 are now kicking ourselves because we didn't do it.

Twenty million people listened in at each of the presidential conventions. Those who were present at the conventions did not learn of Hoover's and Smith's nomination any sooner than the listeners-in.

Calvin Coolidge was the first President to use the radio in his campaign.

In the coming campaign the radio is destined to play an important part. It now ranks with the newspapers as a medium for publicity.

It will cost somebody a good deal of money for a campaign speaker to exalt his candidate and his party, but as far as we know nobody is going to object to campaign expenses of this kind.

Congress has provided by a law enacted in 1926 that all parties shall have equal rights in broadcasting. Of course, however, the candidate with the most money behind him will most use the radio.

It is a far cry from a candidate making speeches in various halls throughout the country and from the rear platform of trains or talking to a few hundred people from his porch to speaking by means of the radio into millions of ears at the same time.

Excellent as our newspapers are in reporting the speeches of candidates the radio is better, for it enables the populace to hear the man's voice and to hear it without going to a meeting, in the privacy of his own home.

Conditions are rapidly changing and before long we shall probably see the antiquated viva voce elections in little booths in the streets done away with and voting by mail adopted.

It is all a question of getting to the people rapidly and of quickly ascertaining their will. New inventions go forward with the progress of democracy.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

SO drugged with sleep the wide land lies beneath the heat's gold haze, naught stirs save painted dragon-flies that wing down flower-sweet ways. Naught stirs, the very air too still to move a leaf, a bud, and the cicadas' chorus shrill leaves off its pulsing flood. All drugged with sleep, each creature now admits the noonday spell, the linnet songless on the bough, no squirrel from field or dell. No beast's low calls, no bird's gay chime, no murmur from the soil while nature rests a little time from all her loveliness by toil.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ONE of my friends has a strange quality.

HE SETS PEOPLE FREE.

I do not mean that he sets their bodies free, although he has done this for many a broken man. There is a greater feat than setting bodies free and that is the freeing of spirits. My friend sets spirits free.

HE SETS SPIRITS FREE FROM FEAR—FEAR OF THE WORLD AND FEAR OF THEMSELVES.

When you come into my friend's presence you are suddenly at ease. You breathe better. You do not actually realize that you are breathing better, but the relief is there.

You know how it is when you come out on the top of a high mountain. Far below you lie the crowded places—the little walled-in roads that smell of dust and soiled humanity — the little walled-in thoughts that smell of greed and hate. And about you lie the sunlight and the endless sky and the clean, cool air that goes on and on to God.

A great relief comes to you—as though doors opened in your frightened mind and tired heart. You do not know exactly why this relief has come to you. You do not stop to analyze those dusty, crowded places far below—nor the sunlit peace that lies about you. You only know that you are FREE—free from all the petty, clutching, nagging of that lower life—free from the petty, clutching fear within yourself.

And because you are free you feel a new courage and a new pride. You suddenly fit yourself to the wide peace and the tall stature of that mountain top. You know at last how a man should feel—A FREE MAN.

That is the way one feels in the presence of my friend. I have seen it happen so often with all manner of people. I am never weary of seeing it happen, for I think it is the finest sight on earth.

Now perhaps you are thinking that my friend achieves this miracle by some sweet, saintly magic. Nothing of the sort. I do not believe that man has a saintly bone in his body. If he has, it must be having a lone-some time of it. He has lived a very full and highly explosive life. He has done a large number of things he should not have done, and I suspect he is ready to do most of them again at a moment's notice. There is no odor of sanctity about him—not even a sniff. Nor has he any creed or high-sounding slogans. He makes no attempt to reform people or inspire them. Nor does he pity or console them.

HE SIMPLY DOES NOT JUDGE THEM.

He accepts people as they are without a question. He never asks what they have done. He does not even care what they have done. He only cares for THEM—for that inner self which is so strangely remote from the acts of the body. He is friendly to that inner self, respects it and greets it with the greeting of a comrade.

And because he does this, he releases people from fear. He releases them from fear as a mountain top releases them from the clutch of the cruel streets. And, for a little while, in the blessedness of that relief, the spirit stands tall and straight and proud, and breathes as free men breathe on a mountain top.

It is amazing how honest and brave people become if you release them from fear—if you let them breathe like free men. But you must be a mountain top yourself to do it. You must have risen far, far above the desire to clutch and punish. As my friend has.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—When a sudden quiet comes to Chinatown, the police become taut with expectancy. Plainclothes men are hurried to every pivotal point in the crooked narrow streets running off the big of Chatham Square. Patrolmen walk in pairs.

It is the calm before the storm—an interlude preceding the bark of sawed-off shotguns in another tong war. In the subterranean catacombs shuffling figures are hatching a reprisal that now run Chinatown's streets red with blood.

The first symptom is when the Chinese children are kept in from sidewalk games. Slowly life seems to evaporate. Tables are no longer set on the restaurant balconies. Chinese with impassive faces lurk with heavy-lidded indifference in hallways.

But their hands are in their loose sleeves—clutching knives. Old men squat in the dark interior of their shops, apparently drowsing, but in reality waiting. From a mysterious source the word has gone out, and any second the hatchets may fly.

At a thousand different vantage points eyes are glued to peepholes. The melee begins like the quick glare of a rocket. And in an instant the streets are swarming. A tong battle rarely lasts over five or ten minutes, but the carnage is often frightful.

Before the ambulances have moved the dead and wounded Chinatown is again showing the world its usual sleepy decorum. Everybody shuffles about his accustomed business. Children return to pavement play and the streets fill with leisurely strollers.

The police face the inscrutability that is so characteristically Chinese. Nobody knows anything. Oblique eyes seem filmed by a dull indifference. There are many arrests, but that is all. And the police merely await another outbreak.

NOTHING is quite so agonizing as to be a part of an audience watching the first night finale of a play. In theatrical parlance it is "laying an egg." When a flop is pronounced the actors sense it before the drop of the curtain on the first act, but carry on with a hopeless futility. To them it means another dreary hunt for work. It is a phase of the optimism of the stage for no player to believe a play can flop until it actually does on the first night. It seems to come as a surprise always.

THE boy in every man, no matter how great he becomes, is symbolized by a New York millionaire who has a workroom where he spends odd hours making mechanical toys. He has manufactured an enormous collection, including a tiger that walks toward you and makes a sullen spring.

ONE of the highest paid window decorators receives $500 a week for supervising the displays in a Fifth Avenue department store in the modernistic manner.

A NEW job is that of flag po gilding. These intrepid experts scamper to the top of flag poles at dizzy buildings and touch up the knobs with gold leaf. There are five or six who make a good living this way. The pay is $30 a day, and keeps one out in the open air.

TOP salary for a servant girl is paid by a family living on an estate near Roslyn, L. I. The woman entered employment eighteen years ago at $7 a week. She has become so indispensible to the household her salary is now $5000 a year aboard. And a month in Europe each summer.

FLAPPER talk and its assurance is confounding to those of us beginning furtively to edge up to thopper and lower sets in dental display cases. Today a shingled young thing dropped her vanity case which I restored. "That was clever of you," she said, and all I could think to reply was, "Yes mam."

What's in the Woodpile?

Any More Conscription for Young Americans, by Any Chance?

Without waiting for that new peace treaty to be signed, Europe begins telling what is expected of us.

First and foremost, Europe expects us "TO BACK UP OUR TREATY." In other words, we say we are for peace and don't want war. All right. Then, if war comes, it will be the business of the United States to jump in and ATTEND to it, even though we had nothing to do with STARTING it.

That may be Europe's view and the view of some sloppy sentimentalists in the United States, well past the age of conscription.

But it isn't the view of this country, and it won't be the view of young men invited to submit to conscription, and accept another dose of "over there."

Violin—Finest Instrument

earth, barring the human voice, than the playing of Paganini, greatest violinist of all times.

If you have several children of talent, let one of them play the violin, by all means, and GET A GOOD INSTRUMENT, even if you have to hunt patiently and get good help in the choosing.

Whatever you do, as Henry Ford says, "Let the children play something." They will enjoy the music that they create themselves, feel it, and CREATING develops them. Don't let them go through life being merely listeners and hearers of what others do on the radio or the talking machine. Radio and talking machine are admirable. Every family should have both. But it is well for us to remember the Bible's command: "But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only."
